Thread: What Is The Most Stable Android RAT in the market Right Now?

What is the most stable and reliable Android Rat in the market.

I am keen on investing in one RAT or botnet where I can track user activity of android users including call logs, whatsapp chats, SMSes, Media files and documents in the device. If you know any decent stable product in the market. Kindly let me know or share your thoughts. I have used Web RAT before but I feel it was laggy and didnt produce good results earlier. I am looking for opinions, reviews here. Feel free to give your two cents.

You can't do this for a multitude of reasons, including Google Play Store rules, the need for users to enable sideloading, the need for users to grant permission to access all the things that you want to steal, and Play Protect heuristic analysis. Try a banking trojan sold on one of the cybercrime forums for $$$$.

Im only speaking in limits of tracking phones that are within access of people. Like for Couples, parents, exes where they can manually install the app and let it track stuff in background without getting noticed. It could work well to keep supervision.

I recommend mSpy for devices that those people have access to.

Thank you for your recommendation. I would check out its website to get its documentation for specifications and pricing.
