Thread: do y'all lift?

oblivikun - September 25, 2024, 9:54 am i have a question, does anyone here shoplift from supermarkets? i have been shoplifting for like 2 years but i don't loot small businesses just big companies because they steal from their customers and they kind of deserve it because they have a lot of money anyway so it doesn't matter.

Omniscient - September 25, 2024, 9:57 am

And here I was thinking I could brag about how much I can bench.

In US the East Cost we call these people Boosters. People who basically shoplift all day as a career. Normally they are drug addicts. They can work in teams, usually works best as a couple (man and woman). They boost what they can, then fence it for the drug money.

I know you specifically spoke about Supermarkets. I hope it's because you're hungry and need to eat and not just because you're a cunt.

not really because it's only from big companies and i earn a lot of money by looting big supermarkets. I am poor and we've not got much money so i lift from supermarkets to get money.

Also big Supermarkets deserve it because they have a lot of money anyway so it doesnt matter if we steal from it

Oh so you're a cunt then. You're not just stealing from the company, you steal from the employees who can't get raises, benefits, or even hired because the store might be losing money. You can justify the theft all you want. It's still shitty thing to do.

I will admit, when I was 18 I had to shoplift to eat. I had a broken arm, wasn't able to work, I was eating rice to survive and I would steal a few eggs from the grocery store so that I had some protein. I knew it was wrong and it hurt my soul doing it. Soon as my cast came off, got back to work and never stole from a grocery store again. I also think once when I was about 12 I stole a candy bar from a Seven Eleven on a dare because I was with the wrong people.

Get your life together. Don't be a fucking cunt.

if i was never going to pay for it anyway then the employees will have nothing to lose because i was never going to pay for the item anyway so it doesn't matter if i take it since i was never going to pay for it anyway. I shoplift so i dont have to pay any money but the employees aren't losing anything since i was never going to buy the item anyway.

Always a justification for people of low characters and moral standards.

oblivikun - September 25, 2024, 11:46 am i am not stealing from the EMPLOYEES because i was never going to buy anything anyway, so even if i didn't shoplift then they dont earn any money because i was never going to buy it anyway. I am stealing from the COMPANY which has millions of $ so it doesn't matter if i steal from them. They deserve it because they scam their customers and they have millions anyway.

the companies all get like $20,000+ per month so it doesn't really matter if i steal $100 per month. I am stealing less than 0.5% of their monthly earnings

Trust - September 25, 2024, 12:25 pm

I was definitely baited by the title of this thread, haha.

No, I do not lift. I am also fortunate enough to have the funds to pay for most things I want.

SwiftTrade - September 25, 2024, 1:49 pm

I shoplift if that works

I can understand this argument for something like media piracy... but not really for shoplifting.

Have you ever been caught? What do you normally take from stores?

I haven't shoplift any store in my life time.

diablospartan - September 25, 2024, 10:58 pm

Well i am not agree to stole from supermarket by what about government who stole so much from us ?

I do this in the past but i stop doing it as i dont have time for this now and i make a decent income now

Local Celeb - September 25, 2024, 11:02 pm

I came here hoping this was a thread bout' body building ?

I don't support thieving, thieves, or anything of the sort.

Philip J. Fry - September 25, 2024, 11:44 pm

I've never shop lifted nor thought about doing so, always was taught thats a shitty thing to do and someone (even if its a big company) always loses money in the end. Plus seems like you're just a lazy kid who doesn't want to work, at least if you were stealing food to survive I'd understand a little but like... get your life together my man.

Hilarious because I have almost the exact same story. And when this former boss of mine who had a lot of money and power kept asking me if I'd ever committed any crimes this was the story I told. It was actually a pack of Tic Tacs and not a candy bar, but yeah I was twelve and on a dare. lol Found out later the reason the boss kept asking me that stuff was he had a criminal past and a big crush on me, and wanted to know if we'd match or something. But the other employees were laughing so hard that that was my story of a criminal past.

I thought this thread was going to be about weights too. I do weight training for women rather than weight lifting.

And what about all the people who have invested in that company?

Kyrus - September 26, 2024, 10:49 am

If you go to DSHS and tell them you're homeless they give you $290 a month on EBT

Basscrazy - September 26, 2024, 11:45 am

I stole once felt so bad I went back and said I put it in my pocket without thinking. He said he saw me consider it for ages and was about to come out after me till I turned round lol he didn't take it further as was struggling for food at that time. I just couldn't do it

Bugsy - September 29, 2024, 6:13 pm

I thought this was gonna be about the gym but that sht got intense

Politely, I'm going to suggest that you find another more fitting hobby other than shoplifting, regardless of which company it is you're stealing from.
