Thread: What Scary Stories Do You Know?

I remember when I was real young, for halloween we use to sit in the dark, eat sweets etc and try telling scary stories.

Do you have any memorable scary stories from your youth?

I had a friend named Anna who lived alone in an old house on the outskirts of town. One night, she heard a strange knocking at the back door. At first, she thought it was the wind, but the knocking grew louder. Worried, she opened the door and found a note that read, "I am right behind you." In panic, she turned around, but no one was there.

In the following days, she heard strange noises and discovered a yellowed photograph one morning that showed a woman who looked strikingly like her. Under it were the words, "You are not alone."

Months later, she discovered from the neighbors that the previous resident had disappeared under mysterious circumstances, and there were whispers that she had never really left...

i was really big into the two sentence horror stories, like:

i heard my mom calling me from downstairs. she died a year ago.

i heard my boyfriend playing guitar in the living room. he lives about 2,000 miles away.

they're really dumb but there are some good ones. those were my shit.

Honestly any scary stories I remember were made up on the spot from my dad or brothers trying to scare me. Nothing official unfortunately
