Thread: 'Diddy Accused of Sexually Abusing 9-Year-Old Boy

The Pact - October 2, 2024, 12:57 am

This individual [the 9-year-old] was sexually abused, allegedly by Diddy Sean Combs and several other people at the studio with the promise to both his parents and himself of getting a record deal.

Now this one I believe because there is actual video of him abusing women. Unlike Tate :)

Well this article is about nine year old boys instead. And I don't think we need an era where no one is believed about sexual abuse unless it's on video.

There's a man on tiktok, a father. Wife abandoned him out of the blue, accused him of domestic violence and now 5 years later, is not allowed to be near his son.

Hundreds of vidoes on his tiktok, crying everyday. He has provided every spec of proof of how much of a great father he was. Wife just wanted more and moved on.

Sad world.

He should probably spend less time on tiktok, and more time talking to a lawyer to get things straightened out, lmao. And coming from tiktok, there is a chance it's either heavily exaggerated, borderline fake, or simply click bait.

He can't provide "every spec of proof" that he never hit anyone in his home. Like what he shows how many toys he bought the kids? That doesn't prove that he never hit her. And also if she just "wanted more and moved on" she wouldn't have to accuse him of domestic violence.

The fact is though that psychopaths or people with Anti-Social Personality Disorder exist in both genders or all genders if you will. If one percent of all people are psychopaths then unfortunately you do get that 1% of women who will make false accusations, while the majority of such accusations are true. That 1% do do terrible things to innocent men, yes.

He's spent hundreds of thousands already on litigation and all law associated fees. He has ran out of options. Nothing is working. He is on tiktok stressing out and it's quite sad to see.

Of course thats the first thought when someone says "hes on tiktok with every spec of prooof". What I mean is, his tiktok is a journal of all his law experiences in trying to get his kid back.

And yes, it is literally what I said. She falsly accused him and the reason is this:

She lured him back to their old home (where they were renting previously) And when he arrived, 10 minutes later the police came to arrest him for "breaking in".

the door was never damaged. He was let in.

When he was taken to custody overnight. SHE LEFT immediately with the kid and filed a restraining order. Which got approved immediately without any confirmed proof lol. And hes had to spend too many thousands arguing his side to get nowhere, because her lawyers are constantly getting away with restraining orders.

When her father died, she was left with his property and assets, that's where she fled to. IT was all just perfect timing.

So yes, idc if you dont wana believe it. It's a sad world for both men and women.

Well like I said one percent of people are psychopaths so those women are out there. But this thread is about a nine year old boy accusing Diddy.

I tend to believe it because most of these guys get famous, have a lot of money, cars, women, etc and believe nothing should be denied them.

What does TATE have to do with this? Imao. TATE is not a good dude. Whether the current allegations are true or not. Thinking that man didn't have a hand in sex trafficking is almost comical. You can tell by the way he speaks about woman.

Thinking that like 50 women from around the world are all liars because Andrew Tate stalked up a whole lot of really motivation quotes from other people is pretty ridiculous if you ask me, but a lot of young dudes here want to believe this.
