A special moment I had was when I was playing skate 3 - and I was 16 at the time - this kid messages me and starts explaining how he always wanted to meet me and we got into a party and this fucking kid broke down into tears LMAOO shit was fucking hilarious. It was special because I never thought anyone would ever look at me in that way tbh

Playing runescape for the first time in my best friend's basement, sitting side by side at his desk playing on an old pc. Absolutely loved it.

I remember when I first started Age of Conan Unchained. This one guy offered to power level me so I followed him and we got along pretty well chatting, but eventually when he dragged me near a spawn location in PvP zone he bashed my head in and kept spawn killing me until I logged off lol. I noted his name down and managed to get my revenge once I joined a guild lol

That game was the most fun I've had in MMO ever.

Might sound a bit cringe, but Minecraft when I was like 14 with all my friends were good memories.
