I've heard people speak about this in the past, but from the replies I read.. they said its not a very good method of spreading. I forgot the reason they said why, but I'm sure someone else will chime in with the facts.

Mooooookie tagging you just if you want some info about this topic

I wouldn't trust this guy and his tool, I just check his website he's selling "PDF Exploits" and I've heard that this thing is dead since 2013, he's also selling a "0-Day exploit" for something like 600$, there are two things that annoy me here :

- a 0-Day is a vulnerability that can be exploited and that is not even known by the editor of a software / OS, if one day you find a 0-Day it would cost way more than 600$
- his 0-Day is called "Silent exploit JPG" on his website, which is probably what he's showing on the video you shared

On his video, his "Builder" seems to show just random stuff :

At 00:43 the size of the pic is 96.8Ko (Ko is french Kb)

At 01:21 the size of the pic with the payload is still 96.8Ko

It is technically possible to "forge" the size shown on the properties but it's complex and cannot be made with a Python script, so I was wondering how is it possible to work as shown on the video ? Well, he's a liar :

Even though the video appears to have been filmed in one take, when you look at the time in the bottom right and time it with your phone, I tested it between 7:04 PM and 7:05 PM. In reality, that minute only lasted 49 seconds on my phone, which means that something happened during those 11 seconds that wasn't filmed.

You can make the same observation in the properties of both files at "Cr  e le" (means "Created") : there is almost 1minute between those two files (56secs) :

- file 1 : 19:01:30

- file 2 : 19:02:26

While the screenshots has been taken at 38secs gap based on the video timeline (00:43 secs / 01:21 secs)

Wait, you want more ? OP shared many YT links to the same YT channel with different videos, he's definitely the owner of the website and wanted to promote his scam :

Someone asked stuff about RAT and he recommended the same RAT he's using on his video

As explained above some things have not been shown on the video, and there are few things that don't make sense,
