Nothing beats the days of where you'd play your N64, gameboy, or even PS2/Xbox at LAN parties with your buddies.

One of my friends sent this and it really got me thinking that we had it all; Eight people crowded around one TV, playing on the multi-tap with our own memory cards, battling it out in WWE games.

It really got me thinking- those times were something special. Who else misses the feeling that games use to bring?
