Thread: What Animals Have Ever Chased You?

Yanix - October 5, 2024, 1:53 am

We all know dogs can get a little too enthusiastic sometimes, but have you ever been chased by a different animal?

Whether it's a curious cat, a wild bird or something even more unusual, let's share our funny or terrifying experiences with animals that have decided to come after us!

I am looking forward to hearing your stories! ?

Deany - October 5, 2024, 1:55 am

Those damn pesky wasps always chasing. I'm afraid of them

Jen - October 5, 2024, 3:03 am

Bearded dragon when i first met Stephen he used to have one and it would freak me out when it ran towards me. It reminded of rando from monsters inc

Mooooookie - October 5, 2024, 3:24 am

Nope, can't say that I've ever gotten chased by anything other than a dog.. and I've been chased by my fair share of dogs growing up. I didn't grow up with animals in the house, and always had a fear of overly aggressive dogs. Not so much now that I'm older, but I'm still not a big fan of them.

totalcontrol123 - October 5, 2024, 4:22 am reminds me of a time in borneo getting chased by some huge spider

Yin Yang - October 5, 2024, 4:25 am

Nothing crazy. It'd be wild if someone got chased by a bear or mountain lion Whoa, getting chased by a giant spider sounds pretty bizarre! I'm curious—was that spider actually dangerous or did someone tell you about it?

i was volunteering with a company called Raleigh international. we was all walking through the forest when suddenly one of the girls scream out. we went for a closer look and this giant spider the size of a size 8-10 boot just stood up on its back legs and started charging at us all. our guide said it was poisonous but not sure how poisonous.

Wow, that must have been intense! I can't even imagine how terrifying it would be to see a spider that huge charging at you.

It's a good thing you guys are all safe. Definitely one of those moments you won't forget!

Wait, I wonder how did you all manage to get away from it?

Cats in many cases, also once by lizzard, but nothing more, horse once bited my hand while i was feeding him in faucly lol

SuseGD - October 5, 2024, 12:57 pm

Nothing has really chased me, unless my friend's dog counts. Even then, it's just a friendly chase, nothing actually aggressive or dangerous.

ahw9n2io8wd9h - October 5, 2024, 1:00 pm

Wasn't chased but there was this one time a dog kept pretended to be going for my ankles while barking at me a I walked.

N - October 5, 2024, 1:07 pm

Plot twist, I chased a bear once. True story.

sharn - October 5, 2024, 3:43 pm

A dog chased me once while I was out jogging.

Thankfully, the dog just wanted to play, but I had no idea at the time!

Prawnster - October 5, 2024, 7:28 pm

When I was like 6 I got charged by a Ram which was an interesting experience Imfao

Oh and around the same sorta age, a Great Dane chased me and he thought he was playing, I thought I was running for my life HAHA

We went bear tracking with dogs a while back. We ended up finding a bear and it started coming down the tree and chased us. It was intense.

Game - October 5, 2024, 11:25 pm

I used to spend a lot of time in rural areas when I was younger. I've been chased by so much shit.

Bees, Wasps, Spiders, Dogs, Cats, Horse, Cow, Sheep, Mouse.

They're all pretty much my own fault in some way for being in their space but the scariest of them all has to be the wasps/bees. The spider got a 1-2 stomp, the dogs was scary too but I their owner stopped them before shit escalated, and cats are assholes.

The horse was on a farm that I was visiting and the horses kid came over to me to say hi, mama horse didn't like it and started to buck wild towards me. Owner quickly resolved that fortunately.

The cow was behind a fence but chased by as I was riding my bike along the road lol. Similar thing to the sheep but I was riding through a path on a field where there were sheep. I didn't see the sign lol.

I tried to fuck up a mouse and it squared up, shit scared me, but eventually it got the cheese snaps if you get what I mean? Lol.

There's others I just can't be bothered to continue now lol.

Wow that sounds like quite the adventurous childhood! Your stories are hilarious ?

It's funny how animals can really catch you off guard, especially when you least expect it.

Jinu - October 6, 2024, 12:21 am

I've had my fair share of run-ins with animals, but the funniest has to be when I was chased by a goose! I was just walking by a pond when this goose started honking and coming straight at me. I didn't think much of it until it spread its wings and picked up speed. Let's just say I ran faster than I ever have before! Those birds can be surprisingly aggressive. It was pretty hilarious looking back, though at the time, I was more concerned about getting away. What about you? Ever had a similar close call with wildlife?

At least you know now how to escape or deal with some of the critters and animals that are about in the countryside Imfao

Oh mate geese are evil bastards, they are up there with Swans - Swans can do more damage but Geese seem to just be angrier in general and idk why because they look like pretty chill guys hahaha.

Yeah I'd say it was a successful day! Little sketchy, but it was an interesting experience.

Ahhh yeah, sometimes pitbulls and dogs can be little psychopaths so getting chased by one can be a scary experience, especially when you are that young!

Right?! Geese always look so calm until they decide to chase you down like you're in their personal territory. Definitely agree they give off some serious attitude for no reason.

Geese are like the swan's unhinged, crackhead cousin hahaha.

Swan's will fuck ur shit UP if you piss them off but normally they can be semi chill at least ?

Haha, that's a perfect description! Swans definitely have that 'I'll mess you up if you come too close' energy, but geese just seem like they're always ready to throw down no matter what.

Mr_Kh4os - October 6, 2024, 10:02 am

Twice by a dog, the same one ironically the owner had assured me he would be on a leash and me being dumb and actually thinking he would be. Both times thankfully owner was in the house, I no longer walk this way as you know third time is the charm.

Sounds like a wise decision. Those birds definitely don't mess around. Swans and geese can be super territorial, especially near water.

Do you have a strategy for avoiding them now?

Carrying some bread might help keep them friendly next time.

Jumping a fence to get away feels like it is right out of a movie scene.
Glad you managed to get away safely.

Where I was there were fences everywhere. I managed to get to a pretty low fence but the dog didn't try jump it luckily.

Usually they don't do anything lol. They just hiss really loudly when you walk through their groups. It is getting colder here anyways so they will be migrating soon.

Actually another one I have copped a lot when a teen was getting swooped and chased by magpies.

Lol this is a funny thread. I don't think anything has chased me except a few random dogs when I've been out and about. They didn't cause me any problems though.
