Thread: Bath vs. shower: Which do you prefer?

sharn - October 6, 2024, 8:33 am

I prefer showers.

They are more practical and quicker than taking a bath.

Which option do you favor?

It has been probably 15+ years that I can remember taking a bath last, I just always have done shower I don't like the idea of sitting in the same water.

Definitely shower, I can't stand in a bath for a long time I find it kinda annoying, there are so many things to do and I'm just sitting here and waiting haha

Zalbai - October 6, 2024, 8:56 am

That's a good question! But easy to answer. I prefer both. In the summer, only a shower, in the winter, only a bath.

Showers. Bath for bitches.

Deany - October 6, 2024, 9:12 am

Shower.

Shower for sure, it's more straightforward.

LeetSpeed - October 6, 2024, 2:45 pm

Shower all the way. With a bath it takes a bit longer.

Biggy_Asian - October 6, 2024, 2:48 pm

Shower because I don't like to bathe in a pool of dirt and stench lol

SuseGD - October 6, 2024, 3:35 pm

I honestly have no clue what the difference between a bath and a shower is, they seem interchangeable to me. I personally use the term shower over bath, but I feel like they both refer to the same thing.

Yin Yang - October 6, 2024, 3:37 pm

Shower for me too my guy

Cap - October 6, 2024, 7:09 pm

Definitely a shower. I turn the shower head on to massage mode and hammer my back/neck with it.

Chrome - October 6, 2024, 7:15 pm

I get very bored, very easily... I would say shower. Only time I would have a bath is if the wife asked me to because theres generally more going to happen lol.

D707 - October 6, 2024, 8:22 pm

Prefer shower, the reason, its simple, very easily and not taking much time.

I know it's going to sound extremely weird, but I only like taking baths when I am sick. Actually, I just like being in hot water. But I don't remember the last bath that I had when I wasn't sick.

Jamika - October 6, 2024, 11:46 pm

Shower as cleaning, but as relaxing may go toward bath

Michael - October 7, 2024, 12:12 am

Prefer a shower, way faster than a bath.

RangoWorld - October 7, 2024, 12:17 am

Shower. That's an easy option.

Mooooookie - October 7, 2024, 9:22 am

I'm 100% a shower person. I haven't taken a bath since I was a young boy. If I had a really large bath tub like my grandparents have, then I probably would take a bath every now and then... they have large bath tub that you have a luxury bathtub that requires you to step up and over to get in it, and its large with jets.. the type of bathtub that would motivate you to want to take a bath.

Aeowulf - October 7, 2024, 9:30 am

Shower. I ain't sitting in my dirty water.

Confound - October 7, 2024, 12:13 pm

Unless I'm on vacation with my girl, I am never bathing. That's gross. Shower only. But if im with my girl and we're feeling romantic, we'll shower first and then take a bath together. It can be nice

Pancake Boat - October 7, 2024, 12:48 pm

Shower any time. I find taking a bath pretty damn boring.

Laughing Man - October 7, 2024, 1:04 pm

Both depends, mostly baths for soaking my body. too many injuries to count. Showers for my day-2-day cleaning.

HOMODIN - October 7, 2024, 1:05 pm

First shower n then bath, that way you go in clean n can sit there n just enjoy the bath.

wait you do both back to back?

Well yeah, first a quick shower to get clean, it's nicer that way, the water doesn't get that dirty then. And yeah, I used to take baths mostly after doing hard physical work. These days it's just a quick shower and when I want to spoil myself I just heat up the sauna and spend more than enough time there.

Artisan - October 8, 2024, 1:52 am

I prefer having a shower as it spends less water and takes less time. Baths waste too much resources.

Dirtbikes - October 11, 2024, 5:50 am

Shower bath ur basically laying in ur own dirt lol..

Jinu - October 11, 2024, 7:57 am

I usually prefer showers, especially when I need to feel refreshed quickly. But baths can be really relaxing when I'm looking to unwind and take some time to myself. How about you? Do you go for the quicker option or prefer to soak and relax?

sharn - October 13, 2024, 8:34 am

Looks like showers are winning so far!
I can see why: Showers are efficient and saving time.
