Thread: Potential partnership, professional developer, long-time HF member, want excitement

Ledara - October 7, 2024, 3:28 am

Hello,

I've hit a bit of a lull in my life with friends and family and continue finding myself reminiscing on days gone by of practically living on HF and similar forums. I would like to keep this post succinct and to the point so will be direct, but I am looking to see if any groups would be interested in allowing me to join up with them. Believe me, I have the credentials. I'm intentionally vague but please do contact me if you're interested in discussing things further.

I have blackhat technical experience from the past and while I've been out of this scene for a while, have only honed my technical skills. Currently I'm working for a company on a dev team working within AI space.

The money was always good doing this stuff but I'm really looking for that exhilarating rush that I remember, and I know my skills now, considering the things I was able to accomplish years back, are easily 10-fold.

Please if you're coming across this thread thinking I may be a good target for your scam or scheme of any sort of kind, kindly fuck off. I truly believe I may be the most cautious and skeptical individual on this forum; you will not screw me over. ?

NOTE: I do not mean HF groups, but a group in the colloquial sense.

Hmmm groups like this is either way away from HF honestly. Telegram groups can be something like that is also mostly consist of kids doing the mediacore blackhat shits.

But you never know. I found diamonds on HF before back in the day. Just wait for the right PM comes into your inbox.

Thx for the info. It was the same with HF groups back in 2010 tbh. I just figured it was worth asking about given the nature of such Telegram groups tend to not be something you can just stumble across no matter how hard you look. You're absolutely right, though, that the diamonds are around here. They just don't advertise it...

I'm kind of looking for the same stuff, also highly motivated to bring something to the table. If you found someone OP. Would love to join :)
