Thread: Do you have security cameras around your property?

Mooooookie - October 9, 2024, 3:38 am

Question:

Does your property have security cameras? And if yes, do watch/monitor them often.. or only when something happens that requires you to check them? I have security cameras all around my house, and I keep the live video streaming to tablet that I purchased specifically for displaying the feed.

Chrome - October 9, 2024, 3:38 am

Bro is scoping out everyones house right now....

I only have a ring camera. I will get CCTV put in at some stage.

Mementobroski - October 9, 2024, 3:48 am

It's a must in and out of your property we live in a crazy world but don't put cameras in every rooms

Riggs - October 9, 2024, 3:51 am

I have way more than I probably need.

Modern cameras usually have motion detection alerting which can be confined to a specific zone within a camera field of view. I don't really see the point in live-feeds being on all the time if I can set up motion detection to only command my attention when there's something potentially worth looking at.

Jinu - October 9, 2024, 3:57 am

That's a solid setup. It must give you peace of mind having that live feed on your tablet. I don't have security cameras installed, but I can see the appeal, especially for monitoring things like deliveries or just keeping an eye on the property. Do you ever find yourself checking the feed even when nothing's happening, just out of curiosity? Or do you mostly rely on it when something specific comes up?

I should. Building surveillance servers is my job. When I get my own place, I hope to have some security cameras connected to Home Assistant.

I do not. Something I plan on getting though

(Oct 9, 2024 06:06 AM)Sox Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I was content with just the Ring, but they offer all kinds of cameras for around the house/outside the property. I think that should be sufficient at my house. My garage door and front door are close to one another.

I don't need a backyard camera/monitoring system

(Oct 9, 2024 06:09 AM)Sox Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Our Ring covers our front door/garage, but idk why I want them on the side of the house too.Gotta have that 360 angle for safe measures haha

I gotta keep my eyes on them.Those pesty raccoons don't want no smoke ?

Yin Yang - October 9, 2024, 6:15 am

(Oct 9, 2024 06:14 AM)Sox Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Dude, my neighbor claims the raccoons can still open his garbage cans.

We have cans provided by our local town, and they're like 5ft tall, but those fuckers climb on stuff and open the lid.

I need to get this on camera.They're smart as fck and have attitudes as if they're not in your garbage lmao

I ended up having to get a few 3 years ago when someone I thought I was good friends with stole two of my chickens, I had gone on vacation and told him I was going and my neighbor recorded his truck coming on my property and going into my garage. There are probably more things missing but I have moved on and we cut ties.

Radi - October 9, 2024, 8:53 am

Personally I was forced to get cameras around my house since I had someone literally peek into one of my windows at my house in the middle of the night, then someone knocking at my door also a random night around like 10pm so i had cameras installed in the corners of the house excluding the front and most recently having random tire punctures as soon as I leave my house which i had to get a front camera. I found multiple nails one morning behind my tire just perfectly placed so that way when I turn on my car I would puncture it so had a camera installed and since then no one has done anything around my house.

Laughing Man - October 9, 2024, 9:08 am

Sure do and everyone should, lots of shady shitty people in this world.

Burnzy - October 9, 2024, 9:33 am

My parents were also forced to install them every month some random shit happens, last time someone hit our fence and ran away

Doug Dimmadome - October 9, 2024, 9:38 am

I'm planning on it. Going to set them up with an Apple HomePod to make things easy

ReJex - October 9, 2024, 9:48 am

Yes, four that record & push notify on movement. I have an old TV I keep running and hooked up to the DVR. I configured all of my devices (TVs, Phones, Computers) to allow me to snap to the live feed if necessary. I do also have a ring spotlight cam with an indoor and outdoor security system.

Wow. Never know who you can trust! It's funny, because I never really thought I needed cameras, I really bought them because occasionally packages would get stolen off our porch. But I can't lie, buying them was one of the best decisions we ever made.. people would be surprised what stuff you catch on just your everyday front of the house camera.

I vouch for that you will catch weird things everyday like we didn't know that homeless people walking up to peoples houses and try the doorknob which is scary to think so now everyone has a gated door in front of the door.

Lol ditto on catching the weirdest things I also had an encounter with some Amish folk before too and caught them sneaking in repeatedly to fish. I never understood why people have lost the courtesy to just ask anymore like if they needed those chicken or fish I would whole heartly give them that and whatever they needed.

sharn - October 9, 2024, 4:48 pm

Yes, I have one camera outside, but I tend to only check it if there is a reason.

LeetSpeed - October 9, 2024, 6:05 pm

Yes the area I've been living in has gotten much more dangerous over the last few years.

codeine. - October 10, 2024, 1:19 am yeah of course even if i lived in like a billionaires area i would always have cameras you never know these days w crazy ppl

F4tDoinkz - October 11, 2024, 6:29 pm

I do outside always no matter what. But I use wifi cameras so it's strictly for outside for obvious privacy concerns.

Cap - October 11, 2024, 7:42 pm

I have one covering my main entrance and the rear entrance of my house. It's nice to see what's going on at all times.

Yes sir, better to be safe then sorry. I never used to think I needed one, and once I got them, I'm so glad that I did. You will be surprised some of the stuff you catch on camera that you would of never seen had it not been recorded.

I don't really live in a city, more on the countryside. So if I'm getting notifications at my house, it could be suspicious.

Jake Johnson - October 19, 2024, 7:00 am

We don't have any at the moment. I first want to get a ring doorbell camera but I have to figure out where to put it. I want it wired but the current spot of our doorbell is too narrow for any of the ring video doorbell devices to fit.

Ring Doorbell and indoor camera, indoor camera only goes on when I go out, just used for extra security really.

Chrome - October 19, 2024, 9:42 am

Apreciate me seeing this post again, I need to get a quote lol.

DanielZ - October 19, 2024, 9:55 pm

I don't have but was thinking to get one at some point
