Thread: Covid... Again

Net - October 10, 2024, 9:53 am

5th time I have Covid since the whole thing started.

Been laying in bed for the past 2 days. Any suggestions what I should watch / do while resting?

SIM-3323508 - October 10, 2024, 9:54 am

Is it covid or flu? Jabbed or nah?

Jamika - October 10, 2024, 9:56 am

Damn i had cold few days ago and lost smelling, could it be covid?

I had it before and lasted in hospital for 4 days, actually they caught me when i was checking lol

Covid. Was tested this morning.

Also not jabbed. But I do have to say, I think this time it might be the shortest time I will be sick. The last times I was in bed for +1 week. This time I feel a lot better on my 2nd day.

Biggy_Asian - October 10, 2024, 9:57 am

Ive only had covid once and that was in 2022 without the jabs/vaccines. I think I am just lucky.

you'll be okay. drink some soup, browse motherless, and enjoy life.

Almost out of tea. Me and my girl emptied 3 boxes of it.

Wish you to recover soon, not lucky to get it for the fifth time :/

In case you're interested in hacking and stuff I've made this thread few months ago :
<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=6270079>

Could give you some ideas

Honestly, this just reminded me to rewatch Mr. Robot.

Damn, that sucks man. Sorry to hear that you're going thru that. I have Covid one time, and man did that shit kick my ass. It lasted for approx 3-4 days, and each day I had a different symptom. It was really weird, I've never gotten sick where each day had it's own separate symptom.. shit felt man made like a mf!

I knew someone that caught it 3 times, but you take 1st place with having gotten it 5 times.

Get some rest, and feels better!

I work in a field where I am in constant contact with numerous people. I am not that surprised I got it more times than most.

Why are people even doing covid tests anymore? It's just a respiratory illness like all the different types of colds and flus. Are you swabbing for the common cold too?

Is it not better to know what exactly you're sick of?

Get Spotify and listen to audiobooks?

I don't know if I've had Covid. I think maybe I had it August 2020 but the only symptom I had was like an occasional cough every few hours and then I had three hours where I had trouble breathing to an extent so that made me think it was Covid but the government didn't want me to have a second test and waste a test since I didn't have it that bad. And it was terrible because the government rang me up and told me to follow all these rules and not be in the same room as my kids and my autistic younger son didn't understand and wrote I HATE YOU to me on Facebook for saying he had to stay away from me.

SuseGD - October 11, 2024, 9:50 am

Covid really sucks, especially if you've gotten it this many times. I'd probably just recommend getting enough rest and drinking enough water. Hope you get better soon.

Zalbai - October 11, 2024, 9:56 am

You are really lucky that you are not vaxxed. The fact that you have fallen ill for the fifth time is probably due to your weak immune system and hygiene. If you smoke, smoke less. If you drink alcohol, drink less. I recommend that you take 5000 IU of vitamin D per day and not exceed 2000 mg of vitamin C.

I disagree on the vax comment. My parents are vaccinated and they only had covid once, when it started.

And for myself, I don't smoke and I drink socially. Also I take vitamins / magnesium almost daily. My hygiene is also clean, you sound prejudice af.

Epic - October 11, 2024, 10:13 am

Triple vaccinated and boosted, only had covid once and I barely even felt it. Check mate antivaxxers lmao. Still waiting on my tail to grow though.

Not really going to get into it, but most people test themselves out of public service or general health and safety considerations. And yea, people get tested for other respiratory illnesses, not just covid.

If you google that doctor you can see that he is notorious for spreading misinformation and even got his medical license restricted.

Kaleb - October 11, 2024, 11:13 am

No recommendations. I'm quite certain I had it last month but I just quarantined on my own, stayed hydrated, ate meals, went about my usual business (I work from home). It wasn't /awful/ but just felt like.. 60% for a bit.

Prepper - October 11, 2024, 11:42 am

Current variants of Covid are no as bad as the original strain, if you are not in a high risk group stick to regular treatments like soup, immune system supporting vitamins.

If you are worried about it becoming severe contact your doctor and discuss Paxlovid.

Zalbai is a crazy conspiracy theorist who listens to Alex Jones and listens to people who practice medicine without a license.

He will also probably share stuff in regards to Ryan Cole which has been debunked numerous times.

I am vaccinated, I know many vaccinated people and we are all doing perfectly fine and so far none of the wacko conspiracy bullshit has come anywhere near being true.

Kind of interesting that it is only unvaccinated people claiming these things are happening while us vaccinated people and the science and majority of the medical field say otherwise.

But hey their friends cousins best friends grandmother died from the vaccine right?.

Best to ignore him.

He doesn't work for the secret government. Many other doctors are paid by the secret government and what they say must be "the truth". Logically, these paying guys are fighting with those who want to bring the truth to light. Your hint means that you trust the media too much.

It would be a lot better if he and conspiracy nuts like him were actually trolling.

But no that is just how delusional they really are.

Ask him for peer reviewed studies to back up his claims. He won't because he can't.

I haven't made any jokes or intended to troll anyone. I've awakened and see how the truth is in this world. Many people have already awakened, and together we stand united, working to awaken others as well. Unfortunately, there are still far too many who do not listen to their hearts, but blindly follow what is dictated by the powerful and the media. It is up to you, as well as everyone else, to decide whether you wish to wake up. The problem is that someone who is deeply asleep remains trapped in their illusionary dream, which they believe to be reality, regardless of how often or intensely one tries to show them the truth.

An important note: Awakening from this dream means questioning the entire system and the world we live in.
