This is perfect for personal use to order discounted food.

These accounts could also be used to open your own BUY4YOU Service and make money!

(Oct 15, 2024 06:10 AM)Nit0 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Does a user have to use like bluestacks or something to login to these?

There's a few ways to go about using these accounts. You could potentially use the proxy I give you and hook it up to bluestacks, that'll likely work. However I think that's too many steps. Upon purchasing I'll show the way I use and the other options I've found that have proven to be successful.

For example, U.S. accounts include $25 off the first two orders, with a minimum spent of $1. You can split the two orders between different locations or use them both at the same location, totaling $50 in discounts per account.

What's Included:

Each purchase includes one Uber Eats account and a corresponding SOCKS5 proxy. I will also provide a brief walkthrough on how to use the account/proxy effectively to place orders smoothly. Should you need further assistance, I'll be more than happy to help.

To be clear, if you order total was $26 it would ask you to just pay $1?

The exact uber eats promotion is $25.00 off with a minimum of $1.00 delivery order. 95% of these accounts have a week worth of 'Uber One' which is reduced/no delivery fees.

There's still built in fees that uber puts on that's minimal, but there's no way around it. (Average order is between $1.50-$4 depending on location and store).

I received an account from the op and he spent almost a half an hour explaining exactly how to order the food without a hitch. He included everything you needed the proxy the account and all the information. I had an order delivered to me in 30 minutes that was worth over 30 dollars for less than 6 dollars. Thing is amazing and anyone who orders food should be utilizing this method.

I have been ordering on UE for quite some time using promotional codes on new accounts (NL), however for the past couple of months every time I want to check out it says that the account is not eligible for promotions. Already tried different devices, payment methods and IPs, at this point I'm not sure if my address is blocked from promos or not. Could I still encounter the same problems with your accounts, and if yes, could they be mitigated by using your instructions?
