Is there anything you've found yourself bragging about that you probably shouldn't have said? I made dark jokes and bragged about vices. There's smoking and shoplifting but not really public about it. There's other stuff like my shoes that I bragged about and money.

Yeah I've been bragging lately when I remembered this guy who owned a strip club fell in love with me. hahaha. Because all those memories came back and I was like fuck that was actually extraordinary because I'm no model or anything. lol I didn't believe it at the time.

People who own businesses seem different when it comes to bragging. Seems like he's Trevor from GTA. I don't think people with businesses have a habit to brag, from the ones I've met.

Haha no he wasn't bragging. He didn't need to. I was just amazed at him telling everyone in his other businesses to do whatever I said because he was in love with me and I was like "What the fuck is going on?"

Back in my early days of bug bounties I bragged about some of the payouts I was getting. Suddenly I got an influx of freeloaders and I came to the realisation that having money solves a lot of problems, but people knowing I have money introduces many more.

Yeah, that's like my friend that owned the strip clubs. He would literally shout about having no friends because everyone was after his money.

I used to want to bounty hunt but I have absolutely no experience, I spent time learning and failed. Maybe it get easier the older I get. Interesting thing about freelancing is contracts. I never understood them.
