Thread: Changing Hairstyles - Easy or Difficult?

Pancake Boat - October 15, 2024, 1:27 pm

So I've been growing my hair out for a bit over 2 months now because I low-key want to change my hairstyle, but something is holding me back.

How is the process for y'all, and what do you rock?

What's holding you back?

I've had the same hairstyle for years now, heck maybe even a decade. Fits me great and don't plan on changing anytime soon.

Having the same one for years, that's what's holding me back.

Well you could test it out if your gut feeling is telling you that you'll look fresh with a new cut.

Same. Same hairstyle for years. No need to change it.

If it ain't broken, I won't fix it lol

For me its very hard, i changed my haircut only once in my life, and any other change make me look silly af ?

TheGoldenRelik - October 15, 2024, 2:16 pm

it's just hair. Hair shouldn't be something difficult to be decided in general.
If you feel like it, go for it

Epic - October 15, 2024, 3:56 pm

I don't know what to call my hairstyle other than the "usual" or "standard" haha. I've pretty much had the same cut for a decade at this point. But I say if you want to experiment or try a new style, go for it. Worst case, you can cut it and it will grow back!

LeetSpeed - October 15, 2024, 4:08 pm

It's easy for me to change my hair style. I grew it out for over a year and just got it cut a few days ago it looks awesome now. What holding you back from cutting your hair?

Buckeyes - October 15, 2024, 5:40 pm

Been growing my hair out for over 2 years. it's long as hell... ole lady loves it but its tough lol. i just rock a straight pony tail or a bun. just now starting to use clips. (idk what the hell im saying, just repeating what she's aid) but frfr its coming back into style imo.

Hell yea, I would like to grow my hair out super long one day just to try it. I tend to keep a pretty shaped up cut though, lol.

Do it, if that's what you feel, few months ago I went buzz cut because felt like this, didn't like it but you know, hair grows back.

Aeowulf - October 16, 2024, 5:56 pm

I'm bald, so it is entirely impossible for me to do anything with mine. ?

Doug Dimmadome - October 16, 2024, 6:19 pm

One time I went to the barber and asked him to give me a "crew cut". We had different ideas of what that should look like and he basically shaved me bald, like down to the skin on my entire head. I wore a monkey cap for about two months after that. Definitely not a good change.

Mercury - October 16, 2024, 6:20 pm

Nature has forsaken me; I am losing my hair. One of these days I'm just gonna shave it off once and for all.

Same not even sure what my hairstyle is called hahaha been going to same barber for years so they know what i want

I am finding it difficult to just go for the buzz cut. I have longer hair, curly bangs essentially, and am growing out the beard for the first time. Soon as I deem the beard good enough I'll probably be buzzing the head!

Not all hairstyles require a name tbh.

Jake Johnson - October 17, 2024, 6:59 am

I have had the same hairstyle for quite some time now. I will say in middle and high school I was obsessed with having my hair longer. I wouldn't get my hair cut until it was damn near covering my eyes. Once I got to college, I decided to try a shorter haircut and have been rocking that style ever since.
