Thread: Anyone know how to find an owner by VIN?

SVJ - October 16, 2024, 12:55 pm

Hey guys I'm curious if anyone knows how to find the name and/or info of an owner from a VIN?

Thank you!

Only law enforcement and insurance agencies can lookup name by VIN.

As mentioned there's few licensed agencies / individuals that can get a person's name from a VIN and they probably have to go through some protocol. You'd have to find someone pretty crooked and likely willing to risk a pretty cushiony job to get that information.

Tons of shady insurance people out there these days, so I mean, probably easier than you think.

I'd imagine its a process and not just any insurance salesperson can tap into this info but I admittedly don't know i tried to search the web for how to do it a while back for my personal use but i didnt find anything which can help a lot i suggest you look at all legal things you can get from vim, it can help sometimes like in this situation: you have friend named x who drives a car y mayne using vim you can find car type and confirm that he really drives car y or smth like that. but as the people here already mentioned only law inforcment and selected people can do that

Doubt you have vin owner info unless you're abusing access as LE or lying. So you're either scamming or will be fired and prosecuted for abusing those systems. Most likely a scammer though.

I think only police are able to see the owners info with VIN
