Thread: What is the best insult you've heard?

Jake Johnson - October 16, 2024, 1:37 pm

What is the best insult you have ever heard? Could have been said to you or you overhead or saw it said to someone else.

I just saw a comment on Facebook that said an African coworker told this guy that he wasn't worth more than three bananas back in his village. The guy said it has been three days, and he still doesn't know how to respond to it.

I heard a streamer say to someone their hairline had a different zip code. Stuck with me since. So funny...

Now that is a really good one! I'd be dying laughing if I heard that said to someone.

Unfortunately it is in my language so you won't get it but it was a combination of following: Playful, dick, pussy-hunter, rounded black eyes

?ystem - October 16, 2024, 3:34 pm

"I wish I could see things from your perspective but I can't shove my head up my ass that far."

I can't recall where I heard or read it originally, it's been 20+ years or so, but I did manage to say it to a very rude teacher of mine from way back in the day.

Eran - October 16, 2024, 3:36 pm

Honestly I can't recall a brutal insult I've heard. Sure I have heard tons of insensitive insults but nothing too horrible.

Sounds like an intense one!

That is another good one! How did that rude teacher react when you said it to him?

Maybe that is a good thing!

Yeah I'm not really around douchebags so that could be it.

Yeah, that very well probably is why you haven't heard any intense or extreme insults. I'm not really around anybody who says crazy shit like that myself. I have definitely heard some wild shit growing up through middle and high school but nothing that is engraved in my brain to remember lol.

I didn't include any internet insults I've heard, mainly because I've forgotten them or there are too many to remember. But yeah like you said, nothing engraved in my brain.

I use to tell my friend it was a 30 minute Uber from his eyebrows to his hairline.

"I know 5 fat people in the world and you're 4 of them" ??

One guy at school told another that his girlfriend reminded him of that feeling you get when you've worn a waterproof coat in the rain and it's all stuck to your skin in that nasty sticky way. We all immediately knew what he meant, and it's stuck with me for all these years.

James Clown - October 17, 2024, 1:42 am

I recall reading on a someones t-shirt at the gym:

"I am fat. You are ugly. I can diet."

FK71 - October 17, 2024, 2:22 am

Hello, are you Richard Cranium?

nass95100 - October 17, 2024, 2:29 am

"You look like someone who knows the taste of pencils"

The best ones are the ones without slurs, dunno why but it hurts more lmao

Jinu - October 17, 2024, 2:51 am

That's a classic! Insults that are clever and unexpected can really stick with you. I love how that one plays on cultural references, making it both funny and impactful. It's always interesting to hear how creative people can get with their comebacks. What's your personal favorite?

Hairline insults seem to always be funny.

Damn, that one is rough! lmao

That is definitely one of the most unique ones I have ever heard.

Hmmm, that is one interesting shirt to wear. I feel like some would have some pretty good insults to say back to that person.

It's a pretty well known one to be honest but I love it. Makes me laugh every time ?

I was sent to the equivalent of the Principal's office to which I promptly fell asleep in the waiting room. Funny enough, that teacher learned to respect me after that situation.

Vip?r - October 17, 2024, 4:52 pm

along the lines of your skull is the only thing keeping your brain from floating away, unbothered by any meaningful thought to anchor it down

Guess you had to say some shit to him in order for him to start respecting you.

Now that is another good one! One of those ones that makes you think for a few seconds when you hear it and then be like ohhh shit! and start laughing lol

Just remembered another one; one teacher told some kid in our class that "your parents must have been incredibly dim themselves to have created such a dull light". Later found out he was an alcoholic who used to drink secretly in the large closet in the design room.

Imagine being that kid and hearing that from a teacher... damn

Heard a bald guy call another bald guy a bald fuck. Not an impressive insult, but it was funny cause they were both bald.

That one isn't a crazy insult but it is one that in the right situation would be very funny to hear said.
