Thread: I'm looking for hacking tattoo ideas

Bastille - October 17, 2024, 11:33 am

It's been a while since last time I got ones, I need to feel the needle on my skin again ?

I already have few tattoos about hacking / IT

I'm thinking about :

- a floppy disk (with something wrote on it, don't know yet)
- an old computer with a CRT screen
- some code (probably wrote in C, but I don't know that much about C for the time being so would be kinda "fake")
- Tux
- 0 and 1 (binary, not gender binary, I saw you coming)
- anonymous and mr.robot masks
- a glider (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Glider_\(Conway%27s_Game_of_Life\)#Hacker_emblem#Hacker_emblem))
- a power button

I would like some fun quotes such as "404 is not my religion" (cause when I'm looking for something doing pentesting I find it), but not sure about the translation

Anything related to hacking culture is good too, I already have one about Matrix for example

Feel free to give me your suggestions, I'm really interested into black hat methods / activities right now, I might get a tattoo related to this too

Thanks ?

(Oct 17, 2024 11:55 AM)m0hx Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) how about a QR code? or spotify qr wave?

u could hide the QR code within the Art that you will go with for example if u go with old computer with CRT screen, put QR code with hidden message inside the screen C:

I'm not fond of basic QR codes because I saw so many from "geek" people on Instagram and stuff, however hiding it in a bigger piece is a good idea ! Now I need to find an idea about what the QR code will be linked to haha

Wondering too how many time it will be readable, as tattoos change with time, I think that after few years the QR code will not work anymore

What about an HF tattoo like the guy in the logo

maybe have him hold a laptop or something would be good tattoo

Wow that looks great maybe he could have added some more color to it like the bitcoin tat
the bitcoin tattoo looks nice too

I would not do an anon mask, that's corny/lame.

Most coding/hacking tattoos should remain as stickers/shirts at most, but that's just my 2 cents.
I would go for something subtle.

Mercury - October 17, 2024, 5:47 pm

This is something I've often considered for myself as well. I'm big on tattoos so it's right up my alley.
I'm going to lean towards the floppy disk. I've actually debated getting one myself.

noEsc - October 17, 2024, 6:05 pm

What size and area do you plan on? I think that really matters. Some ideas best fit specific areas.

it's something important for me

I'm not into black hat / illegal activities and I already have visible tattoos about hacking (such as a 127.0.0.1 on the neck which I can only hide with turtlenecks). It doesn't bother me to get visible tattoos

Nice ! Do you know if you will write something on the sticker of the floppy ? Or you're thinking of getting just a logo of a floppy ?

Good point ! I'm short on money right now so I'm thinking of small pieces, besides a friend of mine is currently learning and need to practice so it will not cost me a lot, but small pieces for the time being !

One day, when I'll get back on my feet, I would like a portrait of Ada Lovelace, on the shoulder or on the back, but something really nice in color

You know, I never thought about it but now that you bring it up I'd probably incorporate "Ophcrack" or something of that nature, ha.

That sounds like an awesome collection of tech-inspired tattoos! I love the idea of a floppy disk. Maybe you could write something like 'Data Never Dies' or 'Insert Disk' on it for a fun retro vibe. The CRT screen would be such a cool throwback, especially if you did some old-school code or a 'blue screen of death' on the monitor. For the C code, you could keep it simple, like a basic 'Hello World' program. Another idea might be the hacker phrase 'There's no patch for human stupidity' — classic in hacking culture! What do you think of incorporating elements like a network diagram or a trace route?

I didn't know the phrase "There's no patch for human stupidity" but I like the idea ! And I agree with it, thanks for sharing this, I'm adding it to my wishlist :)

I'm not against networking stuff, in fact any thing related to the IT field is considered, but I don't want to get a cisco router for example lol, however something networking related and which is cool / original can be a good idea

You should get a tattoo of Neo's face on your forearm. That way every knows you know.

I highly recommend NOT to let someone that's brand new to give you something. More often than not it's not done properly, lines are bad, ink isn't at the right depth, and overall will be low quality.

I would recommend saving money for someone that has lots of experience and will give you high quality work that will last a long time. Otherwise it might be something you end getting covered up.

Also some tattoos that you want good detail and complexity commonly are larger than your hand depending on what you want specifically. Especially if you want anything with letters and numbers they often need to be fairly large otherwise you won't be able to read it in 3 years it will look very blurry.

Glad you liked that phrase. For something networking-related but more unique, how about a visual of data packets traveling through a network, maybe with little arrows or dotted lines representing the flow? Or a stylized Wi-Fi symbol with some creative design elements added. Another option could be an abstract representation of a firewall, with code or binary flowing through it. That way, it keeps the networking theme but stays cool and original.

I was thinking something like a visual of code being executed and flowing through a cable connecting to your chest/heart area. Then something showing root access granted and over locking or something else similar

My friend is a beginner but already make tattoos and have a shop so I'm confident with the quality of the work

I think I could upload it to Dall-e to get some examples, there are cool ideas, I like the Wi-Fi symbol idea !

I'm looking forward to seeing what you end up choosing for it.

UltraexTrader - October 19, 2024, 5:36 am

Depends on how big the tattoo you want it and where you want it to be, I would do some big 1337 somewhere but each symbol 1-3 -3 -7 will have a filling of hacking stuffs&codes. Idk if you get me, not just regular 1337 sharn - October 19, 2024, 9:02 am

You could do a tattoo of a lock being picked, symbolizing your passion for hacking.

1337 is a good reference I'll think about and if I can find a good idea related to it, thanks !

I'm not that much into physical pentesting, but a lock or padlock are interesting things related to hacking, adding it to my list and if I can find something cool to make about it :)
