Hey guys,

What is your favourite kind of minecraft server? Mine was prison. I used to play a server that I spent way too much time and money on called OP Anarchy. Which was an OP prison server.

I fuckin' love to play Skyblock but I do enjoy regular survival Minecraft as well :D

I remember playing on Hypixel a lot when I was younger and when Minecraft was really popular at the time. I enjoyed playing the games they had.

I used to play a fuck ton of factions lol. Man, the community was so toxic back when I played it. I know it's super dead now compared to before, but you can still find active servers. The amount of drama you'd get into being part of the factions on the servers was so entertaining. I'd always sit back in the calls and watch it go to shit. So many squeaky incels shouting over the mic, threatening and oftentimes doxing each other ?. Luckily, I was able to stay out of it. Fun fact: I was part of this faction called Drip, I'm pretty sure, and two of the members (co-leaders) were kind of big in SIM swapping (like 6 figures) I wonder where they are today lol.

I can relate because back then we didn't have crazy fast internet and sometimes gaming while my parents were working would cause interruptions like that for me. Luckily, now we have fiber internet so no worries there. I forgot what the game mode was called but it was so popular at one point with like every Minecraft YouTuber playing it. It was like where you started out on the top level and then bricks/blocks would disappear as you walked over them until the entire level was pretty much gone and then you'd fall through to the next level or worse.
