

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: what is your best encounter?

Sharok - October 18, 2024, 5:27 am

What is your greatest encounter that really helped you in life and why? personally a friend who helped me on projects that have broken through, and I'm new to the forums!

Jinu - October 18, 2024, 7:18 am

(Oct 18, 2024 05:27 AM)Sharok Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What is your greatest encounter that really helped you in life and why? personally a friend who helped me on projects that have broken through, and I'm new to the forums!

Welcome to the forums! It's great that you had a friend who helped you push through on your projects. For me, it was a mentor I met early in my career who really guided me through the ups and downs of graphic design. They not only taught me the technical side of things but also how to handle client relationships and navigate the business side. That advice has been invaluable! What kind of projects have you been working on?

Eran - October 18, 2024, 10:10 am

I don't really have a greatest encounter - I can't choose one. Every person I met has taught me a lesson willingly or unwillingly.

plops - October 18, 2024, 2:21 pm

My greatest encounter was with missingno.

Which gave me infinite items on my 14(?) On bills pc.

Jake Johnson - October 18, 2024, 2:38 pm

I don't know if I really have had a best encounter yet. I mean my best friend helped me through a lot of shit. We were friends since middle school. Unfortunately, he passed away in a drunk-driving crash last year. I love looking back on how much he meant to me and I just wish I could have told him that.

sharn - October 19, 2024, 10:39 am

A meeting with a travel blogger inspired me to travel more. His experiences pushed me to take risks.

Jamika - October 19, 2024, 10:43 am

(Oct 18, 2024 05:27 AM)Sharok Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What is your greatest encounter that really helped you in life and why? personally a friend who helped me on projects that have broken through, and I'm new to the forums!

My dad and mom i think, without them icould be missing a lot in my life