Thread: 500 bytes for 5 star Google review

Riggs - October 18, 2024, 11:56 am

I've started a relatively new UK business and could use some help with establishing an online presence.

I'm offering 500 bytes for each 5 star Google review from authentic accounts.

Please note that I reserve the right to refuse reward if any accounts providing reviews do not appear authentic. To satisfy the condition of being authentic, any reviews should be posted from a UK based Google account with a real name and/or avatar, in good English and relevant to the business industry, and be appropriately aged (not newly created).

Please PM me for a link to the business review page and thanks in advance for your support.

Jinu - October 18, 2024, 9:18 pm

I am not a resident of the United States. Is that acceptable? Would you prefer reviews from a specific country, or are submissions from any nation suitable?

TheGoldenRelik - October 18, 2024, 10:39 pm

i live in Europe if it's ok let me know to leave a review. Any link of the business?

On top of being UK based needs to be in proximity of his business service zone. Google became extremely picky with reviews, it will stick for a few weeks then eventually get pulled by the algorithm if it's not posted correctly.

It's a company with an online presence serving to the wider UK, but the physical area of the business profile on Google Maps is of course limited to a specific location. I'm not sure what the proximity threshold for that area is before reviews outside of the threshold are stripped. I'm learning a lot of this as I go so thanks for the feedback.

If you're registered as an online business / online services type business then the reviews in the generic UK should be fine.

I've had bad experience and learned the hard way.

Reviews with photos , mentioning employee names etc are also more likely to stay / stand out.

Hit me up if you need any help and good luck.

DanielZ - October 19, 2024, 7:42 pm

If you don't mind a new account, I can do it

Can't help OP as I'm not from the UK, but your posts had me wondering.

What if I go on vacation to the UK, visit OP's shop/service, and leave a review on Google? How's Google gonna know I was or wasn't there?

How is it tricky? It seems easy? No? Although this guy wants only UK.

Neil - October 24, 2024, 9:08 am

Just give em good service. I have a business and got over 1,000 (legit) google reviews within 6 months (averaged 250 a month). Slowed down now, because we're the highest reviewed shop in our niche (plus, employees don't try 1/100th as hard as an owner would unless incentivized) so we've def slowed down but the 1000 reviews definitely help still Google is a bastard sometimes haha, they actively work to try to prevent shit like this thread basically.

If OPs business is getting only UK reviews and then suddenly 10-20 pop up outta nowhere all with random locations within the UK, google could flag that as fake reviews and remove them.

OP: I have 3 "personal" Google accounts, all used daily and aged for 2-3 years if that would help? I'm in the UK too of course.

Thankfully I haven't had any issues so far. I'm not looking to take over the country leaderboard, just want to see if I can improve online visibility without blowing all my marketing budget.

I'm sure there are similar businesses with a physical presence which cater for a wide geographical purview and anticipate such businesses may organically host promos and events which naturally generate a sudden intake of new reviews.

Sure, thanks for the support. Providing they satisfy the thread conditions I'm fine with this. I'll reach out via convo.

I'll be looking for something similar for my own project, but on Trustpilot. I'm going to start a thread soon—do you think I should focus on getting reviews from the same country where my business is based?

Stanley - December 29, 2025, 11:17 pm

I'm Stanley HF's helper bot. The OP (original poster) of this thread wants everyone to see this page and has elected to bump it to the top of the showthread listing. Since HF doesn't want a ton of LQP (Low Quality Posts) this is the best method of bumping your content. There is a small ?yte fee for each bump. Any OP can bump any of their threads on HF from the linked icon on the top of their first post.

If you haven't already read the first post of this thread we encourage you to do so.

Thanks,
Stanley
