What is a phrase or word that annoys you or makes you cringe when you hear it?

For me it would probably be "No offense, but..." because usually people who say that know they are going to say something offensive but they think putting that in front of it makes it somehow not offensive lol

I don't use TikTok that much so I'm not familiar with all of the TikTok slang, but I'm sure some of that could be considered annoying when it is actually creeping into real-world vocabulary with the younger generation.

For me its any email with

1. "As previously stated" - this person is about to start a war.
2. " It has been brought to my attention" - someone snitched
3. "In regards to our last conversation" - i know our last conversation get to the point.

- Yea, I can see how all those would be annoying to receive in an email.

Yeah, I completely agree with all of those! I get those so frequently, and it just becomes so annoying to read.
