so i was wondering there's a lot of features on roblox that let's you login to accounts for example quick login i was wondering would you be able to reverse engineer to get roblox quick login api and like if there's an api that exposed a vulnerability for example you can tell your victim to put in a quick login code into the api where you can enter stuff like you know the trade api scams where you put the trade i'd instead you're telling them to put in your quick login code and of course it has to bypass the confirmation for the location thing where it tells you what location the device is from if anybody is able to reverse engineer the quick login api or find a way to make a bookmarklet javascript to automatically enter quick login codes that you make and make the victim enter the quick login code make it bypass the confirm thing also then let me know cause like i said am just trying to find it and of course i will use it for bad purposes. i will not take the account though only in game items and i got a question who is stronger white hats or black hats
