I'm gonna be basic here, but mine would have to be Avengers Endgame.

Being able to see the entire cast from almost all of the movies, all come together for one massive fight? Definition of badass right there.

Besides the Avengers series though, I'd say either Captain America: The Winder Soldier / the Iron Man series, or the Guardians of the Galaxy series. I can't pick really, they're all so damn good.

Deadpool, by far.

I like what Ryan Reynolds did about it, I like the fact that he has read the comics to understand the character and to make the poper jokes and references to the comic, I like the fact that he put his money into the first movie because nobody trusted him.

On the other hand, Disney bought Marvel's rights for the movies, and they did their Disney things with that ...

Deadpool.

I love me some Ryan Reynolds comedy.
