Pimping - October 25, 2024, 7:40 pm

Gonna have to say uber eats/food delivery apps way cheaper and you save so much money just picking up your food normally and using food apps for deals

Yeah, I am a dasher and the app extremely overcharges you. Most of that money goes to DD themselves and hardly any of it goes to us haha

ada1 - October 25, 2024, 7:44 pm

What alternatives do you suggest to DoorDash/Uber Eats?

Personally i just use the restaurants own apps and get deals from there you place a order and just pick it up in the restaurant yourself and you save money too

Probably gambling. Won a lot of money, lost a lot of money. Need to stop but damn if I don't love the thrill

N - October 25, 2024, 8:05 pm

I spent $1145 on DoorDash so far this month, wild.

I feel you its addicting hahaha

F4tDoinkz - October 25, 2024, 8:38 pm

Delivery apps for sure. I refuse to use them these days.

Doug Dimmadome - October 25, 2024, 8:54 pm

I work for a casino. It's gambling. 100% gambling. The people who say it's "just for entertainment" are lying to themselves. My paycheck thanks you very much.

What do you do at the casino are you a dealer?

pretty cool but yes agreed with gambling

Jinu - October 25, 2024, 9:31 pm

That's a good one! Those delivery fees really do add up. For me, I'd say buying brand-name products when there are quality alternatives. Sometimes you're just paying for the label rather than the actual quality.

sharn - October 26, 2024, 2:07 am

Subscription services I rarely use but keep forgetting to cancel.

Money- - October 26, 2024, 8:04 am

Investing into a girl. That would be the biggest waste of money. You invest you are not even sure if it will give you returns or not.

I am not talking about hookers and sex. I am talking about like a real relationship but yea. Its waste of energy/time and money anyways.

Mr_Kh4os - October 26, 2024, 9:39 am

Doordash for sure, hate/love relationship it can be expensive but at same time with the right deals about the same as going to get yourself.

OhCanada93 - October 26, 2024, 11:57 am

Bottled water. All you need is a good filter

Definitely true and i could relate with that gotta find the right one that will stick with you and have the same drive as you

I'll say gambling, with hope to win, we end up wasting, I talk from personal experience.

I agree with you on food delivery apps.

I'd probably have to say tobacco products/cigarettes. You are literally burning money.

That is the thing with gambling, it often takes more than it gives.

Do you mind sharing how much you have ended up losing?

Casp?r - October 29, 2024, 11:08 am

People that buy cosmetics in video games, really what's the point?

Prawnster - October 29, 2024, 11:56 am

Food delivery or maybe gambling.

Both have cost me a fair bit of cash in the last few years haahha.

Mr_Kh4os - October 29, 2024, 12:06 pm

Claw machines bro the biggest scams of them all.

I had a notebook with the winning/losing but it was a few years ago, around 3k if I remember correctly

LeetSpeed - October 29, 2024, 8:44 pm

Gambling is a waste of money. The odd are never in your favor.

Boil - October 29, 2024, 11:06 pm

As a college student, going to college. Here for the useless degree where I'm doing jack with minimal effort for the parents to be happy that I have a degree. Most of this stuff I can learn with YouTube in 10-15mins a day.. Side hustles are paying as much as my engineering father makes. It is what it is I guess.

TheGoldenRelik - October 29, 2024, 11:12 pm

it's totally subjective. We work for something that it has been created to have some price over it.

Yeah, that's true, it can definitely be a pretty big waste of money if you're not careful. Although, I would say that it's alright every once in a while, as long as you are managing your money carefully.

Smoking, i cant think of a way to actually burn your cash more than smoking by all its ways

Honestly, as a non-smoker I'd agree. I don't see the dependency and smoking is expensive for what it appears to give people. Whether it's nicotine or THC. THC in general is crazy expensive for what it does.

Yeah that's what I said too. It's literally burning money and not worth the gratification of fulfilling the urge.
