Thread: Monero is anonymous?

Few days ago, I saw a post on Reddit that says that Monero wasn't that anonymous, any one knows what I'm talking about?

Most tor markets use Monero, what does that tell you?

LeetSpeed - October 27, 2024, 7:41 am

Yes Monero is anonymous.

As of right now xmr is anonymous but doesn't necessarily mean it will be forever. Tor markets also used to use btc because it was 'untraceable', then look what happened to DPR. You should have extra security measures in place besides just relying on the anonymity of xmr.

XMR payments aren't anonymous when you tell me who you are and I tell you who I am. Then one of us tells someone else.

Otherwise XMR payments are private as can be.

Couple of different ways that entities have tried to attack it/people having bad opsec.

1. Run a node for people to submit transactions to and log the transactions (this is a blockchain problem, not a XMR problem)
2. Doing transactions from the same wallet (i.e. deposit to 1 address from KuCoin then withdraw from the same address on SimpleSwap or whatever)
3. Posting your XMR node address on your website whilst running a darknet marketplace that just exit scammed iykyk

Would love to hear the top 3 exchanges for Monero users.

Monero is anonymous only if you use it properly
