Thread: What is the strangest Halloween costume you have seen?

Halloween always brings out the strangest things.

I actually saw someone dressed as a smoke detector. The costume even beeped at random intervals.

It was funny and annoying at the same time.

What is the strangest Halloween costume you have seen?

This isn't super strange, but I find it quite funny.

I've seen someone dressed as a tyre swing. He said the rope was a noose and the tyre couldn't take it anymore. I was funny and weird at the same time.

I once saw a person wearing a tissue box costume. It was completely random, but that's exactly what made it so good. It was definitely a bit awkward, but it sure was unique!

Well... that definitely must have been an experience!

That smoke detector costume sounds both creative and hilariously annoying! Halloween really does bring out some unique ideas. I once saw someone dressed as a giant traffic cone. Complete with reflective tape and everything. It was so odd but definitely got people laughing. What's another memorable costume you've seen?

Oh yeah, I've seen those a couple times these past few Halloweens as well. They're not too strange, but they're definitely unique, and if you get some of your friends to do it as well, it can be pretty fun.
