Thread: Do you prefer indoor or outdoor hobbies?

I enjoy a mix of both.

Indoor hobbies like cooking and gaming help me unwind, but I also love exploring the outdoors when the weather is nice.

Are you someone who enjoys indoor activities more or do you feel most alive in the great outdoors?

I also enjoy a mix of both then I get the satisfaction of being inside in my house, while also getting fresh air and interaction outside.

I am completely an outdoor person. I just love being outside and being active if possible.

Went hiking up in Utah this weekend.

Outdoor when possible, otherwise I'll be trying to find something to do inside in the meantime.

Well I love model kits, so inside it is!

I prefer a mix of both indoor and outdoor activities.

My preference is based on how I'm feeling on a certain day, and how the weather is outside.

Obviously if it's raining or snowing, I'd engage in some indoor hobbies like drawing/sketching and gaming, but if the weather is nice outside, I'll usually go and get some fresh air. One some days, though, I'm just too tired to get up and go outside, so I usually try to find something to do indoors.

Outdoors for me. I spend a lot of time inside plus i have a small nice cabin up north that i love to go and relax with my family at. no electronics during the day unless in raining heavily.

I appreciate both as well! Indoor hobbies like graphic design allow me to express my creativity, while outdoor activities, especially running, help me stay active and clear my mind. It's nice to have that balance! Do you have a favorite indoor or outdoor hobby that you always make time for?
