Olympians are recruiting!

We are recruiting for the personal life and mental health sector. If you are interested please read over the requirements below and fill out the application! Our goal is to foster a positive environment and help each other navigate through the struggles of life. Of course, life isn't sunshine and rainbows and we all carry our own baggage. If you are in need of some support, or looking to support others, this is the place to be!

Great sector, can't wait to see what comes from it!

Hoping to see some quality applications. Good luck to all those who apply.

Do we still have to fill out an application if we were a Panther lifetime member? From the TOS when Zeus owned the group I was part of it. Do you guys truly expect me to fill out a high quality application for this group after I paid $100 for a lifetime membership primarily based on the aesthetics of the userbar? If not, I would love to join the group that is now rebranded as Olympians. Thanks.

What happened that you left the group before if you did?

I didn't leave it, actually. I just became somewhat inactive for a good portion of the year while I was focusing on finishing my previous degree. When you guys rebranded to Olympians I guess everyone inactive was purged who were part of the Panthers?

Why do you want to join Olympians?:

I admire what this group stands for and its purpose is near and dear to me. In my personal life it's not outside the realm of possibility to state I'm everyone's therapist or guidance counselor regarding advice on how to progress further in life from X situation, how to feel about it, how to heal from it, or how to go about it etc. I have a knack for understanding things more in depth than most others, and I simply want to help others to overcome what's holding them back. My years of therapy in my upbringing, along with my fascination of psychology in general, as well as a drive to help others, I believe I can be of help to those that need it.

Are you willing to be active in subforums?:

Absolutely. I like helping people through their troubles, whatever they are. I'm a pretty dedicated individual, if I may say so, and I know I can be of help here.

Are you in need of support, or are you wanting to help support others?:

I may have a question here or there, but I'm here primarily to help others to find what I eventually discovered within myself from the help I received throughout my life, and to continue that rhythm so that others can eventually find peace within themselves too.

Have you applied before?:

No, I have not.

If you were denied previously, why?

Have you previously been in Olympians and have either been kicked or left and why?

Back in the day there was a group called 143 that I was a member of, and we sought out to extend help to others much the same as this group seeks to accomplish. I can't help but feel the call once again to where I can be a part of something beautiful that helps others when they need it.

Why do you want to join Olympians?:

I want to join Olympians because I'm looking to connect with a community of like-minded individuals who are passionate about personal growth, skill development, and mutual support. I'm eager to contribute to discussions, learn from others, and grow alongside the community.

Are you willing to be active in subforums?:

Yes, absolutely. I'm committed to being an active participant across the subforums and contributing where I can.

Are you in need of support, or are you wanting to help support others?:

I'm here for both. While I'd appreciate guidance in areas I'm less experienced in, I'm equally eager to help support others with my knowledge and experience.

Have you applied before?:

No, this is my first application.

If you were denied previously, why?

N/A

Have you previously been in Olympians and have either been kicked or left and why?

No, I have not been a part of Olympians previously.
