I hate when people chew with their mouths open or talk with their mouth full. It makes me want to punch them in the face with a hammer.

You?

I am the same when it comes to people chewing with their mouth open. I briefly worked with an individual that had that bad habit, and I quit within a week because I couldn't stand it.

I would have just made them disappear lmao.

Another I can't stand are people who talk too much and don't "get it" when you give signs that you're bored lol.

Lol. The ole "That's crazy", or "Brool story, co." But I have a unreasonable amount of patience that helps get me through pretty much any obstacle.

Yeah, I'm normally nice enough to sit through, but I do punch the air in frustration once I get away from the conversation though lmao.

After I saw the thread title, before I opened the thread, this was my immediate thought. Drives me craaaazy. The smacking and chomping sound, sheesh.

Yup. I'm pretty sure I saw an article about a woman who killed her husband for chewing this way. I think snoring is another one lol.

Damn, really some crazy mother fuckers out there! Snoring can be rough. For some reason it doesn't bother me too much, but I can definitely see how it could.

Yeah, I think the snoring caused the sleep deprivation and she went insane and killed the husband.

Yeah, I hate that shit..

"Is this still available?"

YES..

Hello?...

Hello.....?

Okay then....

Lmao.

The worst are when people arrange to meet you and don't show. That shits annoying. Now I just give them a road or two over from mine and tell them to tell me when they're here. I won't move until then now lol.

100% - I blame social media and people's need to become an influencer rather than the need to be educated lol.

you're bored lol.

Yeah, I can agree with that. Sometimes they're just passionate and want to get their thoughts out but I can be annoying when you're not interested.
