Thread: Free Web-Based Crypter | Simple Powershell | Empty Services

latencyx - November 1, 2024, 12:51 pm

Hey everyone!

I just finished putting together a straightforward, free web-based crypter and obfuscator for scripts. It's not meant to be a full-blown antivirus bypass tool – the main purpose is just to make code harder to read and a bit more fun to work with! That said, it might reduce some antivirus detections, but that's not the primary goal here.

Feel free to check it out and play around with it. It's all about adding a simple layer of protection for your code and, of course, having a good time seeing the results.

Let me know if you give it a try or have any feedback!

It's something very simple but functional, in the future I can make it better, but I just did it to pass the time

Enjoy while you are online on my server, i am constantly updating this server, in terms of new tools and protections, so if it is under maintenance at some point, it is normal
