Thread: Voting Extended In PA

Prepper - November 5, 2024, 9:17 am

Well the possibility of knowing who won the election tonight has possibly been thrown out the window.

A judge rightfully so in Pennsylvania has extended voting hours until 10pm due to a software issue with scanning ballots. The software issue was supposedly not allowing voters to scan their ballots.

Officials say all votes will be counted.

I said previously in other threads I believe whoever wins PA wins the election.

I've been listening to a bunch of different radio shows while driving today and that seems to be the general consensus.

Yea we will see

Results are starting to come in as polls have closed in multiple states.

Trump currently does have a lead in PA with 50% of the vote in, about a 70,000 vote lead.

Still pretty tight can't be called right now.

Trump won PA and only misses the 3 points that he will get from Alaska where he leads by a huge margin. Let's go!

Not who I wanted to win but I figured late last night he was going to win as he was leading in PA.

But I do hope he does a good job as anyone should be hoping for with any president.
