Thread: What's the Max Limit of Storing XMR in Feather wallet?

xmrlegend - November 7, 2024, 12:15 am

I want to store XMR into my father wallet. But can i transfer huge amount of XMR into my wallet? Which wallet will be best and most secure for storing Huge amount of XMR ?

What do you suggest!

please i don't wanna use hardware wallet!

NOTE: I am using Debian Based Linux Distro!

im pretty sure you can transfer as much xmr you want.

both feather and monero wallet are good.

why would there be a limit?

Be careful with Getmonero wallet ... some friend of mine has lose XMR because AV decides it is a miner... lol And they do not back up.

imo u should have no more than 300 xmr in any wallet. I would recommend making many virtual machines, recording backup codes and using getmonero for this purpose with veracrypt virtual machine drive. Split into many baskets for the future.

18,446,744 is the max XMR you can store in Feather wallet. That's every XMR.

1 or 18,446,744 is the same to a computer, it's not "larger" simply because the number is bigger. Feather wallet is a lightweight wallet which polls full nodes for the balance in the addresses. btw, any wallet in all of crypto shouldn't have a "max balance".

Shouldn't be a problem. That's 300k XMR. Personally I'd break it up into smaller wallet on Feather. Why have all your eggs in one basket?

Who wants to dig up those threads and show this guy what I'm talking about?

Also, are you sure you're not part of some scam scheme?

I think the DIT is plausible to a point. Obviously we're not all bots but seems like a huge portion of content online is actually AI generated. OP might absolutely be a bot.
