Still offering vouch copies? I can write a clean review for you if it functions accordingly.

This service might not come with flashy packaging or a catchy slogan, but I decided to give it a try. It offers an impressive range of TV channels, including some newer ones I didn't even know I wanted. Many channels come with playback and HEVC support, which I've found to be quite rare. The quality is top-notch, and I haven't experienced any buffering so far.

The VOD library seems to be huge, there were even specific categories for my "smaller" country, which is uncommon.

I've just subscribed for 12 months, and I just wish that you'll keep the service at its current level KinotoStream, because as of now, it's unbelievably good.
