Thread: Looking for Imminent Monitor 5.0.0.89 and Luminosity Workstation

Does anyone knows a place to download or to buy these RATs?!

This is the latest versions.

I know what happened to the creators and etc, but anyone here on the forum who bought one or both at the times they were popular, could release, sell or even crack?!

If you know what happened then you know that you can't buy it anymore...

Just curious why IM? I see so many people salivating after it on this forum and I have to wonder whats so special about it?

I was around when it was active and popular but I just don't see what's special about it.

Anyway here's a collection of many other as well, among them being IM. As always run this stuff in VM because nobody can be certain they are clean.

I like to collect RATs and another Hacker tools.

The question is that Imminent Monitor and LuminosityLink are the pioners to put HRDP feature on a RAT, making popular to other RATs after both, put HVNC/HRDP features.

I think is more for nostalgia too.

Very cool this site! I always test on VMs.

Thanks u too!

The site has Imminent Monitor 5, but the first version of LuminosityLink, do you have LuminosityLink Workstation version?! (The last version released)

Another RAT that I'm looking for is RCS Galileo 9.6
