The original thread was for 30 crypto but I contacted nettspend to see if he had more crypto available and requested for 300 of my paypal to be exchanged . He agreed and said he already had the ltc , I opened contract and sent paypal payment right away. He acknowledged he got it and then asked for my ltc address, after that he just went offline. He has been online since then.

I should have been more cautious, there were many signs but I ignored it sadly because I needed it in an instance and chose to rush it. New account and should have went with a mm

Brand new account, so definitely fishy. Though maybe it was an honest mistake and they thought they had sent it before getting off (doubtful but still maybe...) Hopefully this can be resolved though and it was just a simple mistake, but otherwise sorry for your loss OP.

Nettspend has been removed from Gamblers till he solves this.

I have had a 2/3 bytes deals with him & they went okay. I see much rating from Demon as well on his profile so most likely they inflated their rating that way. Account is also fairly new. I doubt this would get resolved however I hope for you that it does.

Interesting play considering he tatted HF on his arm...

Let's hope this is all a misunderstanding, I personally bought 10k bytes off him and went smooth.

If all is valid then that's very average from that member. He was doing some pretty good things for Pulse. I have however removed him from Pulse until this is resolved.

I see there are 3 contracts with him, what were they and how did they go?

Scammed me for $20 as well ? Dispute coming soon

Damn man. Sorry to hear about this, never a good day when a fellow HF member gets scammed. You have the higher credibility then him, and have been a member longer then him, you should of had him pay first. I get it, you see other recent deals and you just assume everything is all good. Unfortunately, you can never give anyone the benefit on the doubt, at least not on here. There are way too many scammers, and way to many that are willing to throw away their HF career over a few dollars. Now that Syndicate has stated he has been scammed too, I don't see how it wouldn't of been deliberate.

Looks like an exit scam, a shitty one at that. What a shame. I wonder if people do this for drug money? It was only a few hundred bucks lmao.

OP I would push for a ban against this member. He's online on discord and ignoring my calls and messages. I have his discord if you want me to provide that.
