Thread: Do you plan on taking some profits in 2025?

Do you plan on taking some profits or are you a hardcore HODLER?

While I'd love to HODL for another decade, I am in need of a new car so I will be taking out some profits in spring or so. What about you?

SnowreyHS - December 3, 2024, 2:16 am

I started my small DCA out 1 week ago. So will see how much I cash out in the next coming weeks.

DashPHP - December 3, 2024, 2:46 am

Not a bad move tbh. Price won't always go up and there will be opportunities to rebuy dips.

GruntStyl - December 3, 2024, 6:43 am

I'll be making profits by slowly purchasing more BTC lol. I've made more by throwing small portions of my paycheck every week into BTC, than I have selling any. I would have kicking myself now if I had.

CrazyMinecraftOMG - December 3, 2024, 6:52 am

Cashout everything just now while the new alt season is coming, wait the classic dip before gennuary to put everything again.

Omniscient - December 3, 2024, 10:18 am

Not unless BTC hits $300k. That's my sell point which I'll drop about 30% of my BTC in order to pay debt. I'd still have enough left that when BTC hits $1m I'll be okay. But that's my take-profit point...$300k.

SIM-63814 - December 3, 2024, 10:44 am

Will probably sell all my alts arsenal when the bull hits peak in 2025. Won't touch BTC I think, except if it skyrockets to about 300k I don't know...

StuffSneak - December 3, 2024, 10:59 am

I made the same decision many years back just to enjoy few materialistic things (not saying about your car but the normal new stuff in daily life) & boy oh boy I wish I didn't do that.

So about the topic, most likely not. Any Crypto that comes in, it goes straight to HODLing.

G-EZE - December 3, 2024, 11:15 am

Depending on when u got into crypto its not a bad idea to dca out but for the people that are just getting into the market this year it may not be a bad idea to hodl into 2025 . The future is unknown so it is always better to take some profits slowly while the market is doing good , u never know when there will be a black swan event that will crash the market pretty hard . Even if u keep it in stable coin to buy back in on a 30% + dip . Just my 2 cents

Hackers - December 3, 2024, 11:16 am

I hold a baseline amount in each of my crypto picks - regardless of price - but I take profit when possible. I also DCA mostly regardless of price - sometimes I'll hold off on a DCA buy, but for the most part, it's a weekly buy.

For example I sold off 15% of my portfolio last night & this morning, but I am still a holder, and will continue to DCA weekly with the occasional lump sum.

Omniscient - December 3, 2024, 11:43 am

I had $xxx,xxx in alts in 2020 when Biden took office. In a year that got decimated and I ended up selling for huge losses instead of profit. Most like Divi or XRD have gone to nothing and are still lower than what I sold at. With alts, you can't hold forever, you must at some point decide to sell for profit. This is not true with Bitcoin. You can just hold it and wait for next bull run.

Taking profit from alts is the only strategy. Everyone who thinks their $200,000 in alt value is going to $1m is just setting themselves up for a massive loss in value. Sell too early though and you have regret, don't sell at highs, you have regret. Basically you're gonna have regret. Unless you Buy Bitcoin, Hold, and STFU. It's the only true 100% winning strategy with crypto investing.

Not all of our money is in crypto, in fact only a small amount is. So I won't be touching my crypto wallet unless I'm buying shit for HF. But I just add to the wallet before sending.

Most stupid advice i have ever heard.

You cash out everything then wait for the bearmarket bottom and go all in.

I rather buy btc at 25k usd one time, than dca every month and have an average price of like 40k usd.

There will be a huge bearmarket just like before, and it will happen in mid 2025 or first half of 2026.

Braco22 - December 4, 2024, 11:20 am

Gonna do a lump sum 25% out between 7 and 12th of January, and then DCA out once my targets are hit.

You have no magical crystal ball telling you what's the bottom. Nothing wrong at all with DCA. And your "cash out" strategy is the most stupid advice I ever heard.

I was up 700k+ in alts during the 2017-2018 run up and held to 0. Same thing happened during deflation season 2021, portfolio was at 300kish then held to a few thousand.

Alts > majors will be my move this time (I hope).

AeroBlue - December 7, 2024, 11:30 pm

Time in the market always beats timing the market. It's also way less stressful and takes way less time. You are pretty much guaranteed to make profit with a 2-4 year time frame.
