Thread: Predicting a continued bull run

Hackers - December 5, 2024, 10:05 pm

I don't think we are just testing the waters & crashing into another crypto winter or accumulation until the halvening. I think we're actually going to hit ATH sometime in late 2025, which would be in line with past cycles.

Of course, this does not mean I will never sell. I always take profits out of principle, but my other principle is to always have funds in the market for my top picks. For example I could predict a drop to 70K on BTC, but still keep money on Bitcoin because of a minimum rule. So take what I say with a grain of salt. That said - I do predict this bull run will continue. I took profits on a number of picks over the last four weeks, and in many cases re-entered from prior sales. I'll still DCA but I will hold off on another large lump sum for now. I have enough in the market even with profits taken out recently.

What's your strategy & prediction?

Speaking of crypto and Hawk tuah. You see this rug pull she orchestrated?

Unregulated markets,
without consumer protections,
this is what the US voted for.

That said, probably a little shitty of her.

I don't think we are done but we are for sure going to see a correction in the interim... When the crypto gurus start emerging on TikTok & Instagram waffling and telling people to move to Dubai, a pullback is coming.

But I mean a consistent DCA who cares about the price until it's time to sell. 10% rule never fails. In agreement I'd hold on a lump sum for a while if its over 10% of your liquidity. If its not and you don't plan to sell for some years then just lump in whenever and forget about it.

yes, 100% agreed.

My predictions allow for volatility. I would welcome a correction before a pump even to accumulate some more to be honest.

Smart man. See you at $1M.

Imagine putting your money into a meme coin promoted by an influencer called "Hawk Tuah Girl." It just shows how dumb some people can be.

You'd like to think people could infer that someone who got famous for saying "Hawk Tuah" down a microphone would not be the brightest spark... Some seriously desperate people out there.

Haha see you there! I have some TA support/resistance lines to look at around 112K, and some good places to check out in the 360-430K range. However, this is only possible with a repeat of past cycles. I do see how we could test the 111-113K range which was my estimated ATH in short term before a correction to between 60-80. We shall see!

Yeah, I don't know who is putting $35K into anything that quickly, but they made a mistake in a risky gamble.

Never spend more than you're willing to lose in a day when you're asleep! Golden rule Continue to DCA every week. If we drop back to $70k I'd have to throw $10k at it. Might even do that at $80k if it happens. But it may not ever go back to those levels though. Never know. Different time were in now.

Agreed. If this doesn't hit, I will be getting my job back at Wendy's.
