Thread: Just Married

BlackRock - December 6, 2024, 6:13 am

Hi folks

I just got married to the woman of my dreams.

I never in a million years thought that she was out there, but I found her.

Can't wait to see what life will throw at us. Good & Bad.

Anyway, stay safe guys. ?

Yanix - December 6, 2024, 6:15 am

Wow! Brother congratulations!

Wishing you both a lifetime of love, happiness and beautiful memories.

Cheers to your new adventure together!

Jamika - December 6, 2024, 6:15 am gratz mate! me and my missus been together for 15 years now and will never look back again!

some advice straight out the gate, set ground rules!

No going to bed mad at each other - shit happens during the day and should stay there, don't want to regret anything if it happens when you fall a sleep always forget and forgive - don't bring up shit from the past -thats teh relationship killer that was pretty much our vows, and 15 years later still feel like honeymoon phase, shit gets hard be support each other

Epic - December 7, 2024, 2:11 pm

Huge congratulations big dog! Wishing you two a happy future!

D707 - December 7, 2024, 3:33 pm

Great idea.

Speaking as someone widowed I felt a kick in the guts seeing the thread title, but Congrats OP, good for you! And yeah watch your internet usage.

The Joker - December 9, 2024, 5:29 am

Happy married life buddy.!

Well the second part is good advice, but the meditation thing I just don't get. I tried to do it once a long time ago, but it's so boring. No offense. I think I'm too ADHD to meditate?

Anyway I have been largely relieved of the sorrow about the death of my husband because this New Years it will be the tenth year anniversary, but of course I will never be 100% free of the shadow of grief, but time partially heals all wounds.

Miracula - December 10, 2024, 2:33 am
