Good luck with sales.

The picture "Your account will last longer if you keep paying bills on time". Can you elaborate on it? I assume credits are things that would be deducted automatically upon usage? I'm pretty much not aware of these stuffs btw.

Its applicable when you have child accounts added in your main AWS CREDIT account since aws has a credits sharing on/off feature.

1. If the account is provided by you, is there any risk (even 1%) of the account being closed or encountering issues due to these credits?
2. If we apply for credits through our own account, what are the chances of approval? Would there be any risk to the account even after 3 years?
3. Is this legal?
4. Are there specific requirements to be aware of?

1- no risk. most accounts I have credits are old enough before I apply. and no, because I recommend not to use these accounts. use your main aws instead but keep paying bills by linking primary and secondary.

2 - 99%, that's what I do. no risk. these credits are granted and approved by aws in your own account.

3 - Yes it is. read more on aws website.

4 - check my old aws threads here on HF or add me on telegram/skype for more info.

I'm Stanley HF's helper bot. The OP (original poster) of this thread wants everyone to see this page and has elected to bump it to the top of the showthread listing. Since HF doesn't want a ton of LQP (Low Quality Posts) this is the best method of bumping your content. There is a small ?yte fee for each bump. Any OP can bump any of their threads on HF from the linked icon on the top of their first post.

If you haven't already read the first post of this thread we encourage you to do so.

Thanks,
