Thread: Snapchat and accounts.... Welp!

November - December 13, 2024, 9:38 pm

Not sure if any of you use inactive snapchat accounts or bought ones but for the past 2 weeks i have been facing some issues.

Whenever i reset the password through email and click on the link, if i try to change the password ill get an error:

"Unable to change password. Please try again from a recognized device or location."

I found a way to get through that by emailing support and for some reason their link works...

But

Whenever i send any amount of traffic to that account ill get about 20-30 adds in the span of 24 hours. Meanwhile my public story goes up to 600-700 views.
Had to manually add people back through my story views..

Would appreciate any insight or help as im not part of any community or discord server to talk or share info (:

Thank you.

I'm getting traffic through reddit, 50-60 posts with 300 upvotes per post.

At first i thought it was reddit not properly showing my posts but after posting a public story my views went up to 600 in a single day.

I started adding people from my views and asking them if they had added me and everyone said that they did indeed add me but it never really showed up on my end.

I was wondering if anyone else is having similar issues or is it just me?

I'm not part of any community and i really don't have anyone else to ask about such things.

I had the same issue a while back, does anyone have any advice?
