Thread: The Game Awards 2024! Did You Watch? What Was Your Favorite Reveal Or Trailer?

DemonAsylum - December 17, 2024, 2:17 pm

So the annual event "The Game Awards" took place a few nights ago and with it came a bunch of reveals and trailers for various games as always. Did you watch the event? If so, what was your favorite reveal or trailer for a game from it?

I went into the event knowing the first big and main Borderlands 4 trailer would be shown so that's what I was most excited for. However, by the end of the event, I was pleasantly surprised given what else got shown off. Witcher 4, Elden Ring Nightreign, Outer Worlds 2, and a couple of others left me incredibly excited for next year as most of those are currently planned to be released then. Witcher 4 being the exception and understandably so.

If you're into gaming, but completely unaware this event even took place, I'd recommend looking it up to at least see a list of what all got revealed for the first time and or had something new shown for it. It was quite a lot and so chances are there will be SOMETHING from it that you get excitement for the next year or 2 of gaming from.
