

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Merry Christmas or Happy Holidays?

Fish - December 17, 2024, 7:44 pm

This time of year, people celebrate Christmas, Hanukkah, Kwanzaa, New Year's, and more. Some stick to "Merry Christmas," while others say "Happy Holidays" to include everyone.

What do you prefer? Does it depend on who you're talking to, or do you always use one? Let's hear your thoughts!

Deany - December 18, 2024, 2:49 am

I just say Happy Holidays , it's usage for everything

BlackRock - December 18, 2024, 3:07 am

I prefer Merry Christmas and Happy New Year. :D

blesphy1 - December 18, 2024, 6:00 am i say good luck in life because luck is a universal thing good for all!

Fish - December 18, 2024, 6:35 am

(Dec 18, 2024 03:49 AM)Deany Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I just say Happy Holidays , it's usage for everything Same here!

(Dec 18, 2024 04:07 AM)BlackRock Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I prefer Merry Christmas and Happy New Year. :DThe classic go to, I like it

(Dec 18, 2024 04:08 AM)Sox Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Merry Christmas and or Happy Holidays.

Both work out fairly well.But one is more inclusive these days

(Dec 18, 2024 07:00 AM)blesphy1 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) i say good luck in life because luck is a universal thing good for all!That's an interesting approach! Haven't see. That myself

Fish - December 18, 2024, 6:53 am

(Dec 18, 2024 07:51 AM)Sox Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Happy Holidays is always a safe statement during these trying times.

Yup, I prefer to be inclusive because for someone who doesn't celebrate, I don't want to make them uncomfortable

Fish - December 18, 2024, 6:56 am

(Dec 18, 2024 07:54 AM)Sox Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is a very good point, and we don't want to make anyone feel uncomfortable.

Except the rats, they can be uncomfortable.

"Merry Christmas you filthy animals"

Like how does someone respond when being told merry Christmas if they don't celebrate? Do they say merry Christmas back or happy holidays?

Fish - December 18, 2024, 7:00 am

(Dec 18, 2024 07:57 AM)Sox Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You could always go with the classic "Merry Pinkmas" Merry pinkmass, nice one. I've actually heard Merry Chrismakuh before sharn - December 18, 2024, 8:15 am

It depends on who I am talking to.

If I know they celebrate Christmas, I say "Merry Christmas", but if I am unsure, "Happy Holidays" feels like the safest option.

Fish - December 18, 2024, 11:41 am

(Dec 18, 2024 09:15 AM)sharn Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It depends on who I am talking to.

If I know they celebrate Christmas, I say "Merry Christmas", but if I am unsure, "Happy Holidays" feels like the safest option.

That's probably the best way to go about it!

Jamika - December 18, 2024, 11:58 am

(Dec 17, 2024 08:44 PM)Fish Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This time of year, people celebrate Christmas, Hanukkah, Kwanzaa, New Year's, and more. Some stick to "Merry Christmas," while others say "Happy Holidays" to include everyone.

What do you prefer? Does it depend on who you're talking to, or do you always use one? Let's hear your thoughts!

Happy holidays is better for me tbh , so to summarise all holidays together

Yin Yang - December 18, 2024, 2:13 pm

It's merry Chrysler IYKYK

Mix - December 18, 2024, 2:30 pm

Happy Holidays is the go to as I know if you say xmas to everyone to some people they say they dont do xmas and what not for whatever s reason.

Bashe - December 19, 2024, 11:51 pm

Happy holidays is generally what I'll say. Unless I know what you celebrate in which case I would say the holiday.

oRequiem - December 20, 2024, 1:08 am

I always say "Merry Christmas."

Fish - December 21, 2024, 11:52 am

(Dec 20, 2024 12:51 AM)Bashe Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Happy holidays is generally what I'll say. Unless I know what you celebrate in which case I would say the holiday.

Yeah I, I feel like that's a good general call!

Bashe - December 21, 2024, 11:53 am

(Dec 21, 2024 12:52 PM)Fish Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah I, I feel like that's a good general call!

It is, I've definitely met people who were Karen's for as small of a thing as that.

eXceptional - December 21, 2024, 11:54 am

I prefer Happy Holidays but as you just mentioned it depends on the person I'm talking to.

Mix - December 21, 2024, 1:40 pm

(Dec 18, 2024 03:34 PM)Sox Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Happy Holidays to you, buddy.

Always nice to see you around the high-quality forums.

Happy hoildays back to you hope you have a good one.

As always I dont post much anymore but keeping it real you know.

F4tDoinkz - December 21, 2024, 1:45 pm

Merry Christmas for me personally.

RangoWorld - December 21, 2024, 1:53 pm

I say "Happy Pinkmas!" ;)

$!uo2H%gE# - December 21, 2024, 1:58 pm

Merry Christmas, even though I'm Jewish. Happy Holidays sounds too much like disrespect for other people's customs and religions to me.

griseldab - December 21, 2024, 2:27 pm

Merry Christmas guys!