Thread: What to Serve This Christmas Season?

Yanix - December 18, 2024, 6:22 am

Every place has its unique way of celebrating the holidays and food is such a big part of it! From savory dishes to sweet treats, traditional Christmas meals tell stories of culture, family, and love.

In some places, it's roast turkey or glazed ham. Others might enjoy tamales, seafood feasts or rice cakes. Where I'm from, we have menudo and Hamon de bola, it wouldn't feel like Christmas without it!

I'd love to know—what traditional foods are served during Christmas in your country or culture?

Maybe some pasta and veggie to go with.

I love carbonara and baked macaroni ? but needs to see my diet hahaha

Haven't you tried cooking those Chinese foods? My Mom used to cook some for us and I am so excited to be with them this coming Christmas time.

Double pizza! Let's goo!! I'm a classic pepperoni guy though.

What's your opinion about pineapple on pizza?

sharn - December 18, 2024, 8:11 am

I absolutely love roasted turkey paired with chestnut stuffing.
