Has anyone here ever skipped Christmas? If so, why?

Personally, I couldn't skip this holiday considering it's my favorite Holiday out of all the others.

I try to skip Thanksgiving every year, but never Christmas.

Why thanksgiving? I can kinda see why, but curiosity.

I absolutely hate seeing people eat. I can't seeing it or hearing it. It drives me nuts. At my house I don't force my family to eat together.

Also growing up on Thanksgiving I was always forced to be around family members that I strongly disliked, so I think that contributes to my disdain for thanksgiving.

I get that, it's disgusting lol.

Everytime I visit family (even on Christmas), I end up just blasting music with my airpods since I hate the sound.

Makes me think that everyone who watches eating ASMR are just psychopaths.

No, I have always celebrated Christmas, even if it is small. It just would not feel right to skip it.

I don't think I've skipped Christmas once, no.
