As a kid, I didn't understand or know they were anime. I just assumed they were American cartoons - didn't think much of it.

DBZ, Rurouni Kenshin, Yu Yu Hakusho, and G Gundam were my go-to. Unfortunately, I never was into Sailor Moon lol

I used to love watching Captain tusiba and Ninja Turtles a lot when I was young. I have many memories with them.

There are many ones I'm thinking about, but to be honest the opening of Dragon Ball GT brings me back straight 25 years ago when I was eating in front of the TV with my sister on the coffee table of the living room

Others that come to my mind :

- Detective Conan (Case Closed)
- Sailor Moon
- Ranma 1/2

In my opinion one of the best Childhood Anime was Dragon Ball Z. You could learn so much from this anime.

Tyr - January 14, 2025, 12:30 pm

Dragonball Z.

To add to this post, I believe a lot of the psychological influences that many anime's character's displayed via their personality/archetypes rubbed off on many of us who watched such anime as a child and followed us into life later on but that's just me.
