Thread: Reporting in convo ?

Jamika - December 19, 2024, 2:24 am

So hello everyone

Was just asking if we could have a reporting system in convo , so when something inappropriate posted we can report it directly

This will be needed as many start to chat in convo lately

This is a good point, but I suggest putting out Convo moderators, or I guess if there is somewhat inappropriate in Convo, its better to put them into their ignore list then keep on chatting.

We need system as sure none will stay in convo for 24 hrs

I could not agree more.

Just a lot of unnoticed things go on when they are offline or overlooking.

I just want the best for HF to see it thrive. Alot of negative energy in the conversations recently

I'm not sure how this feature would work. Reporting one message in convo doesn't give us a lot of context into what was going on at the time. Members can always and already do provide us with screenshots and we will take action if necessary.

While you may not always see a warning or convo ban given, we do reach out to those reported members.

Our goal here isn't to be some forum Nazis who ban and warn people away from the site. We want people to stick around and contribute positively.

Whatever you do, don't report by adding omni to the convo. I definitely never did that.

Some messages should be reported at once as insulting and telling people to harm themselves, its just to make it easy to report

The report will not cause people to leave , or they would when usually reported by screenshot

I don't like the idea because I'm fairly sure people will report every butthurt comment. I'd be more likely to assign moderators who idle in there that don't cause drama and aren't apart of it. Unfortunately that's not too many members. Some of you just like to act up in Convo.

More fair moderators would be a good idea ,people who ensure that things don't go beyond acceptable boundaries.

Doesn't seem needed. Take a SS send to staff/mod/ omni

Most are adults on HF. Now you have to be 16+ to join. I should just make it 18. Adults shouldn't need protecting from hurt feelings. Grow the fuck up.

Anyway ur right sure , we can still screenshot and send
