What are some of your biggest regrets in life if you have any?

JNath - December 20, 2024, 9:44 am

Not holding on to my bitcoins and selling early.

Jinu - December 20, 2024, 9:51 am

I spent all my BTC for LoL skins and RP. ?

Miles Teller - December 20, 2024, 9:52 am

Not buying and saving crypto. Not always being the best friend I could be and pushing people away. Relationships I have ruined.

Thaewhoreking - December 20, 2024, 10:24 am

Being to wild in my younger years and not grinding

Prawnster - December 20, 2024, 10:44 am

Don't really have any regrets tbh, most of my mistakes have been opportunities to learn so its made me who I am today.

Sometimes I see rare models pop up for sale and hesitate buying them at the time. That...

I regret not researching Bitcoin more when it first came out. I did not realize its potential.

Same here, I probably found out about it around 2013-2013. I think that was when it was valued at around $200-300, but I don't fully recall.

For rent? Oof. Was it for multiple months of rent at least?

That would definitely be a waste of time.

BlackRock - December 21, 2024, 2:19 am

Fuck holding BTC. I had a big argument with my father the day before he passed. Never had the chance to talk it out with him. I just want to have that chance to say I'm sorry and I love him.

RangoWorld - December 21, 2024, 2:57 am

I don't have any regrets. Or at least I don't try to look back. Why?

Because I make decisions with my heart and what I want to do. I don't have regrets for choosing the best option that I wanted for myself. Some things work out and some things don't. You move on with life.

Plus more often than not in life it's not the decisions that fail you. It is you. Most likely cause you didn't worked hard enough.

Yeah I think thats about how I go about things tbh, not regretting previous decisions and instead just staying focused and working harder/smarter is the better way to operate.
