Thread: Whats the best Christmas market youve ever visited?

Prawnster - December 21, 2024, 1:23 am

Until about 2 years ago, I never use to go to Christmas markets...

BUT, now that I've started going, they can be pretty great!

Nice food, cold pint and good friends all goin round lookin at all the funky Christmas stuff.

Think my favourite so far was the Manchester Christmas Markets, had a LOT of stalls and so much stuff to look at.

Any market in Manhattan, New York should be a wonderland. Deany will attest

They have a wonderful christmas market at Santas Village in Finland!

Any market is good. It's more about the vibes you get rather than the market or items specifically.

Sounds like a fun time, I have never been to one however I have tried like night markets in Phoenix if that has any similarity haha.

I'm guessing night markets are maybe similar? Just lots of stalls from independant vendors all selling food and items and such.

I just saw they had trouble at a german christmas market. A saudi born individual drove into a crowd of people. :(

New York has the most amazing Christmas markets. The festive energy is incredible.

Facts, I thought I'd hate it because of all the bloody people that just stand in the way but turns out, if you can get past that, it's pretty great haha.

Lots of food, gifts & alcohol! It's a good time.
