Thread: What is the most important thing about Christmas to you?

sharn - December 21, 2024, 10:45 am

For me Christmas is the perfect time to connect with loved ones and create lasting memories.

What is the most important thing about Christmas to you?

Bashe - December 21, 2024, 10:46 am

Spending quality time with family.

I agree. Time spent with family is the perfect reminder of what is really important in life.

It depends on how you look at it.

Personally, I like to be with my family, eat together, and talk.

I don't celebrate Christmas, but it's a time when I enjoy visiting friends who celebrate it, hanging out with them, and eating a bunch of cake.

Christmas is just a great excuse to eat and drink excessively. That's the best part for me.

ariluvs - July 2, 2025, 7:43 pm spending time with family, thats all what its about

Spending time with family and spoiling my nephews and niece.

For me, the most important thing about Christmas? It has to be—no "better luck next time" in the stocking, no missing turkey on the table, and definitely not letting my mom catch me sneaking three extra pieces of Christmas cake!

Christmas is already killed by Muslims.

Islam 1 - Christianity 0.

They won, and the game is over here in Europe and UK ?? and Germany ??.

They were invited to infiltrate every branch of my government and the effects can be seen, and now it's too late. To those who have their heads still attached to the shoulders, MERRY CHRISTMAS!
